BEST FREESIAS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times the Garden Correspondent says:—

Great has been the advance in the Freesia family of late years, Elder's Giant White receiving the Award of Merit when shown at the R.H.S. Hall, London, in April, 1931, since which our florist tells us it is a novelty, proving invaluable in his business. Of the coloured kinds, which are quite an innovation, we have been very pleased with Amethyst of soft lilac shade; Buttercup, pale primrose; Daffodil, a glorious yellow; Robinetta, ruby red, and Rosa Bonheur, soft rose, but the mixtures, as stocked by our seedsmen, are very satisfying, although named sorts are a good investment, as under cool treatment and care of the ripening bulbs increase is rapid.

REMOVED FROM OFFICE.

Muinebheag Town Commissioners, at a meeting on Tuesday night, acting on the suggestion of the Minister for Local Government, removed from office their rate collector, Mr. James Geoghegan, for the alleged unsatisfactory manner in which the rates were collected. This action was taken by resolution and without relieving the sureties of their obligations. They are to be called upon to lodge the amount outstanding in his warrant.

The Minister also wrote sanctioning the honouring by the Commissioners of £18,000 for the erection of 60 houses, and also sanctioning the acceptance of Kelly and Sons, Tyrrellspass, for £17,461 17s. 6d. for the carrying out of the work.

THE STATE GARDEN PARTY.

MR. DE VALERA'S GUESTS.

VICEREGAL GROUNDS AT THEIR BEST.

THE gardens of the Viceregal Lodge, Dublin, were bathed in sunshine yesterday afternoon, when President de Valera gave a large garden party in honour of the delegates to the World Education Conference. Promptly at 3.30 o'clock the gates over the moat were opened, and in a steady stream the visitors made their way up the broad walk to the steps of the Viceregal Lodge, where they were received by the President of the Executive Council and Mrs. de Valera. Mrs. de Valera wore a becoming two-piece of navy blue Irish poplin, with a white poplin blouse and a navy blue Dolly Varden hat.

The many overseas guests expressed themselves as charmed with the beautiful views of the Dublin Mountains and the picturesqueness of the Viceregal grounds. On the lawns numbers of garden chairs had been arranged, where visitors sat and listened to music of the No. 1 Army Band, which played pleasing selections throughout the afternoon. Large marquees had been erected for the occasion, and in these refreshments were served.

In the gathering of about 2,000 persons were representatives of many nations. The absence of the top-hat and morning coat for men was apparent, the majority of the men present wearing lounge suits. Women wore frocks of rather a demure character: those most favoured were floral chiffons in light colourings, with small straw or felt hats.

THE DRESSES.

The gathering was remarkable for the number of Americans present. Among those noticed were: Mrs. Cox (Boston), wearing a smart navy blue lace and georgette ensemble, with a black felt hat; Miss Cox was attired in a green and yellow silk frock, with a brown toque, edged with feathers; Miss Murphy's biscuit-coloured frock was worn with a hat to tone. Miss Dolan (U.S.A.) wore a blue and white nail-patterned crêpe-de-Chine frock, with a blue hat; a pale pink georgette frock was worn by Miss E. O'Hanlon (South Africa) with her beige picture hat. Mrs. M. Fry was wearing a black hat, trimmed with white gardenias, with a black-and-white check crêpe-de-Chine dress; Mrs. Gaffney chose a picture hat of black tagal to wear with a pretty blue and green floral chiffon frock.

Mrs. Mooney was wearing black lace, with a hat to tone; Miss U. Daly chose a white hat to wear with her blue frock, while Madame Goo was dressed in white georgette, with a picture hat of white straw. Mrs. Lefroy was wearing a black marocain two-piece, with touches of beige lace, and a small black hat. A navy blue hat was worn by Mrs. Louis E. O'Carroll, with a blue two-piece ensemble, trimmed with navy and red check marocain. Mrs. J. R. Gregg (New York) looked smart in a black toque, trimmed with glace leaves, and a grey check crepe-de-chine frock. A peach coloured jersey cloth two-piece was worn by Miss Mangan, with a beige hat. Miss Milroy was wearing green, while Mrs. J. Milroy's white costume was worn with a white and brown hat.

A smart fawn hat was worn by Mrs. Linehan, with a black and white ensemble. Miss Edna Hood (U.S.A.) wore a tweed cape with her pink patterned silk frock and red and blue poplin hat, while Miss Elizabeth Hood wore pink silk, with a tweed cape, and a multi-coloured straw hat. Mrs. Bostwick (New York) was wearing a fashionable frock of black georgette, with a georgette and net cape, and a black and white hat. Miss Coyne, of Washington, chose royal blue marocain to wear with a black hat, edged with crinoline. Miss Ruth A. Stewart (U.S.A.) wore a black and white floral chiffon frock, with a black hat. Mrs. Donal O'Sullivan's lovely picture frock of brown stiffened chiffon was worn with a large brown tagal hat.

Mrs. Meade was attired in a black and white crepe ensemble, with a hat to match. Mrs. T. Bodkin wore a white picture hat with her black and white patterned silk frock, and Mrs. Bolch chose a navy and white two-piece, with a small navy hat. A blue velour hat was worn by Mrs. Sean MacEntee, with a royal blue lace toilette. Mrs. Ruttledge was wearing black satin, with a white organdie coatee and a white hat. Mrs. W. Magennis was in scarlet marocain, with a black ciré coatee and black toque. Mrs. S. E. Lewis (Ottawa) wore a primrose picture hat, with a frock of mauve chiffon. Miss A. Murphy wore black and white foulard, with a black hat. Miss Leycock (Ottawa) wore a black hat and coat, with a frock of green and white spotted crepe-de-Chine. Senora Vera (Mexico) was wearing a grey felt hat, with her silver grey satin frock. A black suit and hat, with fox furs, was worn by Mrs. R. J. Coults (Canada). Miss West (Great Britain) was in green and beige sprigged silk, with a beige hat, while Miss Grace Owen wore a black lace and georgette toilette and a black hat.

A lilac georgette two-piece was worn by Miss Dorsay (U.S.A.), with a black hat. Miss Moore (California) was in brown floral chiffon, with a brown hat and white flowered coat. Mrs. MacAdam (Delaware) wore a beige coat with a blue floral frock. Mrs. Drummond (U.S.A.) chose a white hat and coat to wear with a brown flowered silk frock, and Miss F. G. Moder (U.S.A.) was wearing a primrose yellow frock, with a white hat and coat. Emerald green satin, with a black and white picture hat was worn by Senora Comas (Spain). Miss Marks (U.S.A.) wore a yellow check frock with a brown coatee and a white hat. Miss M. A. Huffman was attired in sky blue patterned silk marocain with a white beret. Miss Jacobs wore a blue floral two-piece with a blue hat, while Mrs. Ivah Deering (U.S.A.) was wearing a blue cloth coat with a blue and white patterned silk frock and a blue hat.

The catering was by Messrs. Mills, Ltd.

DUBLIN HARDER.

INDUSTRIALS IMPROVING

Dublin Stock Market was in much better fettle yesterday, and there was a marked increase in the dealings in local securities. The Industrial section, though far from busy, was again on the up-grade.

Free State Funds were irregular, First Loan rising a fraction and Third Loan falling a point to 109½. Land Bonds were unchanged.

Dublin Corporation stocks were supported at last prices.

Banks were firm, the feature being a rise of nearly 1½ in Provincial New to 21½.

In Rails, Great Southern Debs. lost 4 points at 32, and Great Northern Debs. rose ½ to 37, but the Pref. fell 2 points at 5. Dublin Tram Ord. gained 6d. at 77s.

Elsewhere Guinness units were busy, and opened steady, but afterwards fell away to Tuesday's closing price, 97s. 3d. The Pref. rose to 14, and Powers Pref. repeated 13s. 3d. Alliance Gas improved to 12 11/16. Burke Pref. eased a shilling to 29s. Goulding Pref., Hammond Lane and Helys Ord. were all unchanged. Harringtons and Goodlass Wall rose to 2s. prem.

The Industrial section was small, but the changes in Coats, Courtaulds, Vickers, and Imperial Tobacco were all upward to the extent of a few pence.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

TRIPLEX GLASS GOOD.

Although business in the Industrial Market yesterday still remained on a restricted scale the tone generally seemed firmer. This was attributed to the improved overnight advices from Wall Street, though that centre was not disposed to do much in the afternoon, and prices for the trans-Atlantic counters were easier in the late dealings.

Cables and Wireless stocks continued to move in uncertain fashion.

Rolls Royce were favoured in the Motor section, and rose 6d. to 53s. 6d., but Austins sagged to 64s. 9d. and Fords to 24s.

Apart from Electric Supply Corporation Ord., which reacted 9d. to 69s. 6d. on profit-taking sales, the Electric Supply group were well maintained.

Breweries presented a somewhat steadier appearance. Watney Deferred improved 1s. to 48s. 6d., in anticipation of the full report and accounts. Mitchell and Butlers advanced a similar amount to 54s. 6d., and supporting orders were also received for Distillers, Allsopps, Barclays, and Vancouvers. The dull spots were Bass, City of London, Guinness, Meux, and Threlfalls.

The Tobacco leaders received moderate support, but there was not a great deal doing. "Bats" improved to 109s. 4½d. and "Imps" to 106s. 9d.

Textiles remained on the dull side for the most part. J. and P. Coats received a little support from the North around 58s. 9d., but Sewing Cottons gave way to 43s. 3d., Whitworth and Mitchell to 51s. 9d., and Listers to 11s. 7½d.

Rayon issues received a fair amount of support, noticeably the Celanese group. American Celanese rose to 8⅞ at one time, eventually closing with a net gain of ⅜ at 8½. Canadian Celanese held at 4, and British Celanese improved to 16s. 10½d.

In the Provision and Catering section, Tate and Lyle were easier at 76s.

In the Miscellaneous section most of the interest centred around Triplex Safety Glass shares in anticipation of a good report and increased dividend. The buying was said to be of a knowledgeable character, and the price went ahead, eventually finishing 3s. 9d. to the good at 57s. 6d. Dunlops were a better market at 34s. 4½d., and renewed support was noticeable for London Bricks, the price improving to 69s. 3d. Harrisons and Crosfield Defd. rallied to 72s., and James Finlay continued a firm market around 71s.

OIL SHARES BRIGHTER.

Although business in Oil shares showed little if any expansion yesterday the better tendency, which had developed just before the close on Tuesday, was again apparent. The few orders were mainly on behalf of buyers, and with little real market existing prices soon responded to any support.

Small buyers came in for the better-class descriptions, and, although Paris offered a few Shells and Royal Dutch around mid-day, they were soon absorbed here, and most of the leaders finished slightly higher. In other directions British-controlled were wanted, and buyers found the shares in short supply, while Steaua Romana were also quickly affected by what was described as good support.

RUBBAR SHARES FIRMER.

Trading in the Rubber share market yesterday was again of extremely meagre proportions, but, in sympathy with the firmer tone which developed in the raw material department, share values disclosed a better tendency, and the movements resulting from the day's business, though few in number and of modest amounts, were in the right direction. Higher levels were reached in the commodity section, but trade was on only a quiet scale. Spot and August went from 3⅝d. to 3 11/16d. per lb., with October to December advancing from 3 13/16d. to 4d. per lb., and January to March from 4 1/16d. to 4 3/16d. per lb.

Current prospects are regarded as satisfactory.

For the previous year there was a loss of £1,237.

Sungei Bahru Rubber Estates.—The report for the period March 12, 1932, to March 31 last states that there was a loss on revenue account of £3,665, to which was added guarantors' commission of £2,115, making a total loss of £5,780 to be carried forward. The company was incorporated on March 12, 1932, after a reconstruction of capital.

Thomas Robinson and Sons (Rochdale).—No interim Ordinary dividend. Last payment March, 1930.

Watney Combe Reid and Co.—Net trading profit £1,098,076, and compares with £1,204,960 for the previous year. After Debenture interest and interim payments made in February last, there remains £832,384 to be dealt with, this sum including £282,380 brought forward. As already announced, Defd. stockholders are receiving a final payment of 6 per cent., making 10 per cent. (against 15 per cent.). The report further states that £300,000 has been taken from property improvement and contingency reserve to provide for expenditure on properties. Directors recommend a further transfer to this fund of £300,000 out of profits, and the carrying forward of £277,551, against £282,380.

LONDON FIRMER.

CANADIAN LOAN OPEN FOR ONE MINUTE.

There were signs of an expansion of public interest in the London Stock markets yesterday, and although trading generally never reached active proportions a decidedly firmer tone developed in most directions, and at the close a long list of more or less substantial appreciations was shown. British Rails provided a good feature, especially in the late dealings, following the announcement of the traffic figures. This week's figures show a substantial decline compared with the same week of last year, but when allowance is made for the fact that the figures for last year were for bank holiday week, they made a good showing, and were substantially better than had been anticipated.

The instantaneous success which attended the £15,000,000 Canadian issue, the lists for which were only open for one minute, although generally anticipated in the "City," was reflected in the harder tone which developed in British Funds. Trading in this section could not be described as active, but quotations went forward all round. With the exception of Brazilians, which again appreciated smartly, Foreign Government stocks attracted only a modicum of attention, and no decided trend was evident. German Sevens finished ¼ easier, while Japanese issues also lost the turn. British Rails, as mentioned above, displayed strength. Southern Pref.-Ord. went ⅜ better, and Great Western Ord. and North Eastern 5 p.c. Pref.-Ord. each gained ½, while Midland Ord. put on ¼. The Prefs. also were firm. Rather easier conditions ruled in Colonial and Foreign Rails. "Can.-Pacs.," exceptionally, showed a firm front, though trading usually kept within narrow limits.

The trans-Atlantic issues were firmer, being favourably influenced by the latest advices from Wall street. Oil shares were distinctly harder, and Rubber shares disclosed a firmer trend.

LONDON "STREET" MARKET.

Business in all sections of the "Street" market last night was practically at a standstill, and dealers left early. In the absence of supporting orders the trans-Atlantic favourites tended to ease. Nickels declined 1/16 to 19 11/16, and Tractions were quoted 1/16 lower at 15. Hydros lost 1/16 to 8¾, while American Celanese fell ⅛ to 8½.

Home Industrials similarly ruled quiet, but Triplex Safety Glass were bid for at 57s. 6d.

LONDON MINING MARKET QUIET.

GOOD RALLY IN BURMAS.

With the long week-end only a few days off, little disposition was shown to enter into new commitments in the Mining Market.

The volume of business in all departments remained small. Price movements were of an irregular character, and in most cases they did not exceed a small fraction.

A favourable influence was a further rally in metal quotations. The rises were not large, and, except that Rhodesian Copper issues were inclined to be harder, the relative shares failed to derive much benefit.

A feature among Miscellaneous descriptions was a good rally in Burmas, following the announcement of a final dividend.

Westralians were a shade easier in places owing to lack of interest, and West Africans remained in the background.

A turn-over in the general run of Kaffirs was small, but a moderate business was put through in a few specialities, of which the most prominent were Gold Fields, Union Corporations, Randfontein, Grootvlei, and East Rand Props. The approach of the holiday exercised a restraining influence on business, and Johannesburg apparently also had the holiday in mind, scarcely any business being transacted with the Cape centre. Johannesburg was again a seller of West Wits, and the shares fluctuated rather quickly there. Nigels were also on offer from that quarter. Paris at first sent buying orders for several of its favourites, but not at practicable prices. Later, however, the French centre became more aggressive, particularly where Gold Fields were concerned. Small lots of some others were being absorbed on local account, but there was no uniformity in the movement of prices, declines being almost as numerous as rises. Closing prices:—

Gold movements from the United States in July amounted to $84,562,000 (£16,912,400) at par), which is the largest monthly total since July, 1932. With the exception of $92,700 (£18,540), which constituted a special French transaction, all the movements were releases of earmarked holdings. Total shipments to France were $79,560,000 (£15,912,000), and to Sweden $5,001,600 (£1,000,320). There were no gold imports in July. THE MONEY MARKET

GOLD DEARER.

The price of gold yesterday was quoted 3d. higher at 124s. 3d. per ounce, at which figure there was a premium of 4d. per ounce. About £450,000 was in the market, and this was divided between the Continent and the "unknown buyer."

Conditions were very easy in the short loan market, there being ample supplies available at ½ per cent. Bill rates were weak owing to the glut of money. The banks were buyers of September and October at 7/16 to ½ per cent. respectively, while the "hot" bills were changing hands at ½ per cent. to over. Fine three months' bank bills were not better than ⅜ per cent.

Speculators were selling silver in the bullion market, and the price declined ⅛d. further to 17⅞d. per ounce for spot and 17⅞d. for forward delivery.

Conditions in the foreign exchange market yesterday were rather more active than on the first two days of this week, the chief feature being the further appreciation of the franc. Dollars were again erratic on a small turnover. On moderate buying on a narrow market dollars improved in the morning to 4.40⅞, but reacted later, and were finally without change at 4.46½. Canadian dollars, after moving between 4.78 and 4.81, closed at 4.79, a net improvement on balance of 3½c. At the close francs were ½fr. firmer at 84 15/16. Other gold exchanges were also firmer, but the movement against London was not so pronounced as in the case of the franc. Swiss francs improved by 3½c. to 17.15, Belgas by 6c. to 23.77½, and Guilders by 2c. to 8.22. The German rate fell by 3½pf. to 13.92½. There were no changes of importance in the Eastern currencies in spite of the further fall in the price of silver.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY.

Czechoslovak Visitors : Cricket in Wexford : Galway Hunt Ball : Mullaboden : A French Delegate.

From Czechoslovakia.

I had the pleasure last night of meeting the three Czechoslovak officers who have come to Dublin to compete at the Horse Show. This is the first time that Czechoslovakia has sent a team to Dublin, and I am sure that our visitors, whether they win or lose, will be given a hearty welcome by our people. They are extremely charming fellows. Like all their fellow-countrymen, they are simple and unaffected, without a trace of "side," and although they only arrived in Dublin yesterday, they already have found much to interest them. Captain Statecny, who is in charge of the team, is well known among European cavalrymen. He has jumped with marked success at most of the big tournaments on the Continent, and has had experience of most kinds of obstacles. He admitted to me, however, that the double bank at Ballsbridge is something entirely new to the Czechoslovak team. All the other visiting teams have had previous opportunities to become acquainted with the intricacies of Ballsbridge, so the Czechoslovaks will be under a definite disadvantage. In welcoming them to Ireland for the first time, I might mention that two of the three officers took an active part in Czechoslovakia's gallant struggle for freedom during the War. Captain Statecny and Captain Bycek both fought in the Czechoslovak Legion, of which their Consul in Dublin, Maior Ruzicka, also was a distinguished member, and in wishing them the best of luck next week, I only hope that they will be treated as hospitably in this country as I was treated in theirs when I visited Czechoslovakia for the first time some twelve months ago.

Mullaboden.

It was good news to hear during the British Medical Association's meeting last week that, although Dr. T. O. Graham has purchased Mullaboden, Co. Kildare, it does not mean that this famous Dublin throat specialist is retiring from practice to live in the country. The property has been acquired as a week-end residence and holiday resort, and is ideally situated within less than an hour's motor run from Dublin. Formerly the residence of that notable Irish general, Sir Bryan Mahon, the property passed at his death to Sir John Milbanke, but he and Lady Milbanke never spent very much time at their Irish home, although for some time they took a keen interest in Irish racing and kept several horses in training. Charming gardens and pleasure grounds surround Mullaboden, in addition to which there is a lake which is large enough to permit of boating.

Economy in Enniscorthy.

Canon Lyster's literary activity—two books from his pen have appeared within a few weeks—suggests that he has spared himself little since he resigned from his laborious incumbency at Enniscorthy. He has many good tales to tell of old days in County Wexford.

A bill for 10s. was presented once to the vestry for the sweeping of the church flue. A vestryman protested; the price was too much; who did the work? The sexton, a little man named Johnny Parslowe, was summoned, and Canon Lyster said: "John, some of these gentlemen think that 10s. is too much to pay for sweeping the flue."

"Oh, that is what we always pay, sir."

"Now, in future, John," said the objecting vestryman—and his words must be read aloud—"we must get this flue swept with economy."

"Ah, sir," says Johnny; "it is with a brush we always do it."

The cream of this joke is that when Canon Lyster told it to a brother parson, that parson sent it to a comic paper and got 7s. 6d. for it.

Madame Liard.

One of the outstanding visitors to Dublin this week is Madame Liard, who is attending the World Federation Congress of Educationists on behalf of the French Minister of Education, M. Anatole de Monzie. One singled out this quiet, unassuming Frenchwoman from among the delegates and others who spoke at the civic reception, although she sat so far back on the platform that even the Chairman of the meeting was not aware she was there.

Madame Liard is attached to the Institut International de Co-Operation Intellectuelle at Paris. She has travelled a great deal, and has been twice in America at other educational conferences. She met Mr. T. J. O'Connell in Colorado two years ago. During the War she was attached to the American Red Cross, and afterwards she became interested in the work of the Rockefeller Foundation. She assisted in the campaign against tuberculosis in France, which had developed during the period of hostilities.

Madame Bonhomme, another visitor, is a sister of Madame Liard. Incidentally they are both War widows. Madame Bonhomme is Secretary of the Medical Inspection of Schools at the Prefecture of the Seine. Strange that, though the women of France have not yet got the vote, here are two of them who hold positions usually bestowed upon men.

Madame Bonhomme, who has, by the way, studied law, is confident that within the next four years women will at least succeed in gaining the municipal vote. Though she is a strong feminist, she does not favour the adoption of any of the tactics employed by the English suffragettes in their time.

"Orange William."

It was a new experience to me last week to see a cat brought to the seaside for the day. I had been dozing on the beach and awoke to see, not far away, something tawny-yellow, with four legs, that was certainly not a dog. I rubbed my eyes and looked again—I am afraid I must have stared rather obviously, as the owner of the animal, seeing my bewilderment, remarked: "No, you are not dreaming, it really is a cat." We fell into conversation, and I was introduced to "Orange William." His name puzzled me—"Orange" was easily accounted for by his colour, but why "William" as well? I was told that he was a native of the North of Ireland, having been brought as a small kitten from a cottage beside the River Boyne—hence "Orange William." Very dignified he was, too, and apparently thoroughly enjoying his day. He played at intervals—still without loss of dignity—with two terriers who were also of the party; he took walks, by himself, along the shore and among the rocks; and he was careful to return in good time for tea, taking up a strong position beside the milk bottle. I was told that he went on all picnics with his owners and their family as a matter of course. He hated being left alone for long, and when still quite young had come to recognise the preparations for a picnic, and had insisted on getting into the car when it was being packed for the day's outing. After that he was never left behind, though there was one bad day in his youth when he discovered that attractive holes in rocks which contained shrimps contained also much salt water. First into the car on setting out, for fear he should be forgotten, he waited until everyone, including dogs, was packed in for the return before taking his seat. Then he chose the best-looking lap and slept throughout the homeward journey.

Wexford Cricket.

Wexford is, I think, one of the few Irish counties where all members of the community take a deep interest in cricket. In most parishes there are cricket clubs. The majority of the members are farmers and farm labourers, who do not bother about wearing the conventional garb of cricketers. In fact it is very seldom that they wear either gloves or shin-guards. Matches are keenly contested, and the standard of play is very high. The players do not, however, believe in leg-theory or body-line bowling.

East Galway Hunt Ball.

The annual East Galway Hunt Ball, which will be held on Wednesday of Horse Show Week, promises to be a very enjoyable function. Hunting men are asked to wear pink coats, which will add to the gaiety of the scene. One of the attractions will be a raffle for a dressing gown in the hunt colours. The ball will take place in the Metropole, following the inter-hunt competition at the Horse Show on Wednesday afternoon, in which competition the East Galway Hunt have a team entered.

QUIDNUNC.

BATTLEFIELDS TOUR.

THE BRITISH LEGION PARTY FROM DUBLIN.

The success of the third tour of the battlefields in France and Flanders, promoted and organised by the Irish Free State Area of the British Legion, is now definitely assured.

The tour will be under the personal direction and guidance of Major-General Sir W. B. Hickie, K.C.B., late Commander of the 16th Irish Division, and Mr. A. P. Connolly, Chairman of the British Legion in the Irish Free State. Already some 180 have signified their intention of participating in the present pilgrimage, and it is hoped that others will join within the next few days.

Under the experienced control of the officers of the Legion responsible for the tour, the care and comfort of those taking part in it are adequately guaranteed.

The party will leave Westland row on next Saturday evening at 7.50 o'clock, returning on the following Friday.

The organising officer will be pleased to hear from any who may still wish to join the pilgrimage at 28 Harcourt street, Dublin, as it is still possible to make a few reservations. No time, however, should be lost in making application.

LATE EARL OF COURTOWN.

At a meeting of the committee of the Ferns Diocesan Protestant Orphan Society a resolution was passed expressing great sorrow at the death of its late president, the Earl of Courtown. Appreciation was also expressed of the services he rendered to the society, and sympathy was tendered to his widow, Lady Courtown, the present Earl and Countess of Courtown, and their relatives.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

WITHOUT PURGATIVES OR CALOMEL

'and you'll jump out of bed in the morning full of pep

If you are fed-up and depressed, feel heavy-eyed in the morning and get the blues all day long, don't swallow a lot of salts, liquid paraffin, palatable laxatives or harsh purgatives and expect them to make you feel fresh and buoyant and full of sunshine.

They can't do it. They only move the bowels and don't get at the cause—your liver. Your liver's chief job is to send two pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Your stomach is filled with gas. You have a thick, bad taste in your mouth. Your breath is foul and skin blemishes often break out. You get headaches and feel rotten. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTERS BRAND LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pints of bile juice flowing freely and to make you feel right on top of the world. They contain harmless, gentle vegetable extracts and they are just wonderful when it comes to promoting the flow of bile. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carters Pills. Look for the name Carters on the package. At all Chemists 1/3 and special 2/- size, saving ninepence.

THE NATIONAL GUARD.

GENERAL O'DUFFY AND THE JEWS.

In an interview with the Rev. A. Gudansky, Senior Minister, Dublin Hebrew Congregation, General O'Duffy assured him that the National Guard organisation is absolutely free from all anti-Semitic tendencies. In fact, his organisation is animated by the sincerest feelings of friendship and goodwill towards all classes and creeds in the Irish Free State, excepting Communism.

He has never referred to the Jews as the instigators of Communism. He is well aware of the fact that the Jews in the Irish Free State are useful and law-abiding citizens, whom he was sure, will identify themselves with all movements tending to advance the well-being and happiness of the Irish people.

IRISH TOBACCO.

EXHIBITION AT HORSE SHOW.

Through the kindness of Mr. Edward Bohane, Director of the Royal Dublin Society, an exhibition of Irish-grown tobacco in the various stages of its development will be shown at a special stand in the Society's premises at Ballsbridge on the 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th instant, so that the many visitors to the Horse Show may see not only the various home-grown specimens of this tobacco crop, but also consider its excellence and its national possibilities from an industrial and an economic standpoint.

Photographs, descriptions and charts, showing methods of treatment and development from the growing plant onwards will also be exhibited.

A special meeting of growers, curers and manufacturers of home-grown tobacco will be held in one of the boardrooms of the Royal Dublin Society's buildings at Ballsbridge on Thursday, the 10th instant, at 3 o'clock p.m. to make the necessary arrangements relating to the curing and manufacturing of tobacco, and to consider the cost and selling prices of this season's crop.

HOLIDAY ATTRACTIONS.

The end of the public holidays this year is being fittingly observed through the enterprise of the British and Irish Steam Packet Company in providing lovers of scenic beauty with an opportunity to view the coast line from the rippling waves of the Irish Sea.

On Sunday, 6th August, the steamship Lady Munster, one of the most comfortable passenger steamers in the company's express Channel service, is placed at the disposal of those who prefer a quiet, health-giving holiday. The steamer will cruise northwards as far as Carlingford Lough, leaving Dublin at 12 noon and returning at 10 p.m. Passengers will be able to view the Mountains of Mourne at close quarters. The cruise promises to be very enjoyable.

On Monday, 7th, the Lady Munster will sail in a southerly direction, leaving the Liffey at 10 a.m., and will skirt the beautiful and romantic coasts of Wicklow and Wexford, returning home again within the round of the clock.

Excursionists should make early application for tickets, as the number of passengers is limited. The British and Irish Steam Packet Company have issued handbills which all those who intend to spend their holidays afloat in home waters should consult.

WORLD EDUCATION CONFERENCE.

ECONOMIC PLANNING.

WELFARE OF THE NATION.

A FULL AND AMPLE LIFE.

ECONOMICS were looked upon for many years as a dismal science, said Dr. Paul Munroe, at the luncheon of the Economic Section of the World Education Conference in the Royal Hibernian Hotel, Dublin, yesterday. Recently, however, more pyrotechnics attached to economics than any other subject.

The Lord Mayor, Alderman Alfred Byrne, T.D., extended a hearty welcome to the visitors. The work of their chairman, Dr. Frances Moore Butts, Ph.D., had brought many benefits to the people of her district. In Ireland they were not always fortunate in getting in public affairs the people who thought about real things and things that mattered. He wondered if their writers and their very distinguished educationists would come down from the air and face the hard facts of material things. They had in Ireland many thousands of unemployed, and they had the most fertile land in Europe. Large numbers were leaving the land and coming to the cities. Farmers' sons and daughters were then competing in the cities for work that should go to others. There should be people at that educational conference who could devise schemes which would help the ordinary people, particularly in the direction of finding homes for the great number of their citizens who were unable to pay the high rents demanded of them.

The Chairman introduced the principal guests:—The Hon. Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, U.S. Minister to Denmark; the U.S. Consul-General to the Irish Free State; Mr. Denby, of the U.S. Legation in Dublin; Dr. Munroe, President of the World Federation of Education; Mr. T. J. O'Connell, Organising Secretary of the Conference; and the individual members of the board of directors of the Federation. The visitors all spoke highly of the wonderful hospitality that had been extended to them during the visit to Dublin.

ECONOMIC PLANNING.

An address on "Education for Economic Planning, National and International," was delivered by Dr. John F. Burke, D.Sc., B.Comm., Dublin, who said: "My country, right or wrong," embodied a philosophy which was far from perfect, but in the long run its advocates did much more good and much less evil than those nondescript hybrids who worked themselves into a frenzy of rage over the grievances, real, or imaginary, of the citizens of another country, but had no time to spend in alleviating the much more pressing problems of poverty and unemployment in their own country.

Economic planning like charity should begin at home but if it was to be perfect, should not necessarily end there. "Furthermore, said Dr. Burke, "I venture to assert that sane national thinking is not in its essence prejudicial to international welfare; but it is not leadership, as i conceive it, to weigh all one's actions first in the balance of world opinion before putting them into operation. And so I hold it true that what Mussolini did for Italy, what Roosevelt is doing for America, what Hitler is doing for Germany, and what De Valera is doing for the Saorstat is founded on right principles, it is putting first things, first—the welfare of the individual nation over which each is ruler."

SURVEY OF NATIONAL RESOURCES.

Accepting nationality as the sound basis for economic planning and in consequence for a progressive system of education, there next arose the question: Upon what lines should such planning proceed? Here the educationist came into his own. With wisely trained citizens the survey of national resources, actual and potential would be quickly and accurately accomplished, existing knowledge would be made soon available, and original research would modify or extend its conclusions. Censuses of production had in recent years revealed to all nations economic facts that were but hitherto surmised, and had thrown some pregnant sidelights upon the relative value of the home market as contrasted with the precarious value of a hitherto over-emphasised foreign trade. At times he felt inclined to believe that they were still back in mind and thought with the old mercantile school of the seventeenth century, which held that it was "the great object of a community so to conduct its dealings with other nations as to attract to itself the largest possible share of the precious metals." How else could they explain that remarkable predilection for foreign trade, and that more amazing worship of the golden calf? It was his firm belief that the extent to which any policy of economic planning aimed at providing the citizens with a full and ample life was the best measurement of its success. Therefore, it was not only advisable, but highly necessary, that each nation should seek, so far as its resources permitted, to develop the necessaries of life, to grow wheat and vegetables and fruit, to manufacture boots and clothes, especially from its own leather, and wool and flax, to utilise its own water power and peat and coal resources—in fine, to develop such industries as were essential to provide it to the fullest extent with food, clothing, and shelter, and to enable it to usefully employ all of its employable citizens.

Education must go in advance, so that when the plan matured the workers were there trained to develop it. The first thing that they as workers in the field of education, and of commercial education in particular, must do was to preach day in, day out, the nobility of labour. They would have to inculcate the lesson that there was as great—if not greater—need for the labour of the smith who shoed the horse as for the labour of the secretary of the great industrial company that employed smith and secretary alike.

The world to-day was slowly, but definitely, dividing itself into two great groups—on the one side were those nations who believed in God, on the other side were those nations who denied His existence. As educationists they must make their choice. For them in Ireland it had already been made by history and tradition. They were not merely Christian, but Catholic. Their economic planning and their educational system must, therefore, be founded on definite moral principles.

Mr. Beresford Ingram, M.A., Divisional Inspector, Department of Education, London College, speaking on the subject, "What is happening to Commercial Education," referred to the low status of commercial education in any scheme of education, and said that they could not be satisfied with the status of the commercial teacher.

Mr. T. Dawe, hon. secretary, Oxford Conference of Commercial Teachers, in a brief speech on "Commercial Education in Great Britain," said that what was needed was a great national body for the control of commercial education and the issuing of certificates and diplomas.

Dr. Irving R. Garbutt, Cincinnati Schools, U.S.A., spoke on the "Future of Education for Business."

SCHOOL MEDICAL SERVICE.

THE PERIOD OF ADOLESCENCE.

At the Health Section, in the Mansion House, yesterday, Dr. John Davidson, County M.O.H., Suffolk, in a paper on "Medical Examination of School Children," said that it was abundantly evident that if an improvement in general health of the children was to be secured, co-ordination must be obtained between the school medical service and the service of maternity and child welfare. An appreciable percentage of entrant children present defects or conditions which require treatment. A proportion of the defects and diseases detected at medical inspection during later school life were the chronic and sub-chronic sequel of infection and illness in the pre-school period. The statutory health services must be co-ordinated with those of the school service, so that maximum facilities for diagnosis and treatment might be available. There was urgent need to secure proper supervision of the pre-school child. The defects found in the first five years of life were capable of amelioration by simple means, and the child also should be given ample medical attention for the following three years. Between seven and eleven physical conditions should be placed first, for to yield good fruit adolescence must be assured of a sound root formation; this was for the primary school to provide.

Dealing with the secondary school child, Dr. Davidson said that a preliminary instruction in biology and hygiene will have prepared the way for this specialised information, and this teaching will follow in natural and undisturbed sequence the teaching of the functions of the other organs of the body.

Such knowledge and understanding would obviate many of the mental and physical difficulties of a period of adolescence and would prove of value in the future ordering of lives and conduct. "The replacement of tainted knowledge by informative teaching; the replacement of ignorance by wise information and the entire common-sense control of this vitally important question form one of the greatest mental and physical requirements of children of this age period," said Dr. Davidson.

Miss Ceseria Tan, from Manila, read a paper on "Progress in Health in the Schools of the Phillipine Islands," written by Miss Edna A. Gerken, of Manila.

The setting up of centres of children's literature as a means of attaining a better understanding between nations was suggested.

Writers of the different nations, it was urged, should be encouraged to produce new contributions that would help to promote understanding and appreciation of the culture and characteristics of various peoples.

RADIO AND CINEMA.

A resolution was passed unanimously urging careful study of the various types of radio and cinema programmes and their effects on children. Parent educational committees should include radio listening groups and groups for the evaluation of motion pictures, so that radio and cinema programmes should make for the enrichment of home life and enlightened parenthood.

It was suggested that teachers should note the reaction of pupils to current cinema programmes, and estimate their effect on health and behaviour and school work.

It was especially urged that information already compiled on cinema and radio be made available to parents and teachers everywhere.

Miss Ishbel Macdonald, daughter of the Prime Minister, was elected President, in succession to Mrs. A. H. Reeve. Lord Allen of Hurtwood was elected Chairman of the Board, and the following Vice-Presidents:—Mrs. A. H. Reeve, Dr. G. W. Kirby, Canada; Mrs. R. W. Alexander, Japan; Professor C. Bougle, France; Dr. Paul L. Dingler, Austria; Dr. L. Marquis, Uruguay; Dr. H. H. King, China. Secretary, Miss Muriel A. Payne, England.

PROTECTION OF THE HOME.

THE BUILDING OF CHARACTER.

SIMPLER SCHOOL PROGRAMMES.

AT the third biennial convention of the International Federation of Home and School, which was held in the Engineers' Hall, Dawson street, Dublin, yesterday, Mrs. A. H. Reeve, Philadelphia, President of the Federation, presided.

Representatives were present from Western Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Finland, Holland, Japan, Latvia and the United States of America.

Mrs. Reeve stated in her report that the Federation was not an administrative body; it was rather a league working for the protection of the home. The conflicts arising when many nationalities were grouped in one school, or community, were due to unreasoning antagonisms felt and promoted by adults. A project undertaken with marked success had been the increase of mutual interest between the nineteen Republics in the Pan-American group, through the observance of Pan-America Day, April 12. Notwithstanding the depression of last year, eight strong new member groups had joined the organisation.

Papers were read as follows:—"Health," by Dr. Thomas D. Wood, Columbia University, New York; "The Home," by Miss Helen W. Atwater, Washington; "Rural Life," by Miss J. E. Frysinger, United States Department of Agriculture.

SCHOOL PROGRAMMES.

Resolutions were passed recommending the simplification of school programmes, so that more efficient methods might be developed for the building of character in the younger generation, the preparation of young people for family life and parenthood, and also recommending that in universities and other higher institutions the study of the home and family should receive the consideration it deserved.

The resolutions recommended the introduction of work in mental hygiene in institutions for teachers, and the study of mental hygiene as of special assistance to parents and teachers.

In the re-organisation of education, it was stated the element of social adjustment of the individual child to the family should be considered.

Consideration was urged of the system of school examinations, so that the mental and physical health of children should not be endangered, and that schools should be allowed to develop the best possible programme, especially for children, without the restrictions of unnecessary external examination.

It was requested that those in charge of international examination inquiries should devote attention to the effects of school examinations on mental and physical health and upon the newer educational programmes designed to meet present-day needs.

LEISURE AND CITIZENSHIP.

TRAINING BOYS AND GIRLS.

EDUCATION FOR EMPLOYMENT.

AS educationalists they had to train boys and girls for the right use of leisure and for the functions of citizenship, said Mr. Charles F. Parker, Plymouth, in the course of an address on "Education for Employment" before for Educational Crafts Section.

They must give them a vision not only of the world as they saw it, but also of the city which was invisible, and far more real. It was almost unbelievable, but nevertheless a fact, that even among their scholars they had bred into the texture of modern thinking the idea that manual work was not the soul-inspiring effort it used to be. Was it any wonder that the development of machinery, which had become the artillery of commerce, should be regarded by parents as a sort of nightmare; that they should prefer their children to be adequately maintained without coming into contact with anything so vile or so degrading as manual work? Or that the professional craftsman teacher should hide his light under a bushel for fear of the consequences?

POISE AND DIGNITY.

If human life was to retain poise and dignity and business skill suffer no diminution, the importance of craftsmanship and salesmanship must be recognised as an indispensable part of the world's economic machine.

It was utterly impossible, Mr. Parker proceeded, even if they wished to do so, to devise forms of education which would turn out boys and girls specially shaped to meet the infinite variety of needs of those hundreds of occupations to be found in any single area.

In the city he came from there were between 700 and 800 different occupations. What they had to do was to make sure of a sound general education, and to call it by no other name, giving the subjects of that general education a method of treatment, particularly in character, which would fit children for almost any occupation they might desire to enter. They were on dangerous ground in attempting in any way to prepare specifically for any particular sphere of work. Let them do all they could to get that practical work going. They should then supply young people, not only of intelligence, character and energy, but of adaptability, reliability and resource, by having given them a sound general education based more on concrete methods and individual lines, and less on abstract methods, the inherent weakness of all forms of teaching in the past.

The present, concluded the speaker, was the finest opportunity he had known in his lifetime for education to capture on its side the captains of industry, and to get their unqualified support in Chambers of Commerce, Mercantile Associations and in County and Borough Councils.

THE WORKER'S ATTITUDE.

Alderman Dymond, ex-Mayor of Plymouth, said that what led to the highest success in the realm of handicraft was the attitude of the worker. It was the man they wanted to get at. All education had to be practical. In cultivating the hand they were also cultivating the brain.

Mr. G. J. T. Clampett, Barrister-at-Law, Principal, Rathmines Technical School, Dublin, said that he believed that everybody should be trained to earn their livelihood. He spoke of the tragedy of middle class women unexpectedly called upon to maintain themselves who were unable to do any class of work. It was not the job of the school to turn out the complete workman or workwoman. Some industries undoubtedly seemed to take the attitude that such was the case, particularly with the technical day school. It was the task of the school to give a general training which enabled the employé to start at the bottom rung of the ladder.

Training the worker in the employment of his leisure was a social question. There seemed no doubt but that in the future the worker would work about half as much as he did at present, and yet have the same standard of living. He must be trained to spend his extra leisure in a proper cultural and spiritual way.

Miss Moore, America; Mr. E. Holden, Gloucester, and Mr. Heller, last year's president of the Educational section, British Association, also spoke.

Mr. Raymond R. Butler, M.Sc., of the Technical College, Aston, Birmingham, presided.

IN HONOUR OF U.S. MINISTER TO DENMARK

BREAKFAST AT HIBERNIAN HOTEL.

The women delegates from the United States of America to the Educational Conference gave a breakfast yesterday morning at the Royal Hibernian Hotel, Dublin, in honour of the Hon. Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, United States Minister to Denmark. The affair was purely informal.

Among the delegates from the United States in attendance at the Conference is Miss Ella King Vozel, a teacher of English in a boys' Vocational High School at Pittsburg, Pennsylvania. In addition to her participation in various phases of educational work in the State and national organisation, Miss Vozel is closely affiliated with both the National and International Federation of Business and Professional Women. This organisation, now numbering federations in eighteen of the European countries, as well as in the United States, Canada and South America, is non-political and non-sectarian, and places educational opportunities for women at the head of its list of fine objectives. A high school education for every girl and "Better Business Women for a Better Business World" are the familiar slogans in each of the hundreds of local organisations. In the more than 550 occupations now open to women, 537 are represented in the roster of international membership.

APOTHECARIES' HALL ELECTIONS.

At the annual meeting of shareholders of the Apothecaries' Hall of Dublin, the following elections were made:—

Court of Directors—Colonel Adye-Curran, Dr. Burke-Kennedy, Dr. W. F. Delaney, Dr. Hayden, Dr. Keogh, Dr. E. Magennis, Dr. J. B. Magennis, Dr. Mason, Dr. McGrath, Dr. E. H. Murphy, Dr. R. V. Murphy, Dr. J. Sheppard, senior, and Dr. J. Sheppard, junior.

THE CHANNEL SWIM.

MISS GLEITZE GIVES UP.

Miss Mercedes Gleitze, who entered the water at Dover at 10.15 yesterday morning on an attempt to swim the Channel, gave up at 6 o'clock in the evening. It was estimated that she was then nine or ten miles out from Dover.

The weather was perfect when Miss Gleitze went into the water, but towards evening the sea became rough owing to a freshening wind.

Thousands of holiday-makers cheered Miss Gleitze when she returned to Dover last night in the motor boat Ocean King.

"The start of the swim was made in perfect weather," she said. "The sea was dead calm, but two and a half hours later the wind began to rise, and gradually increased in force until the water became quite rough. I had no thought of giving up, however, but at 5 o'clock conditions became much worse, and the waves came right over the small rowing boat from which I was fed. Those on the motor boat wanted me to give up, but still I kept going.

"At last the weather experts and my medical adviser decided that conditions were no longer suitable, so very reluctantly I gave way, and with difficulty, on account of the waves, I was lifted into the motor boat. I was feeling quite fit for the further long swim, and the end was a great disappointment to me.

"When the weather is suitable I shall make another attempt."

SUGAR BILL MAKES PROGRESS.

IRISH COAL IN THE NEW FACTORIES.

MR. COSGRAVE AND THE ISSUE OF LICENCES.

THE Dail did not sit until seven o'clock last night, and the greater part of the short sitting was occupied with the consideration of the Sugar Bill. The question of the use of Irish coal in the factories that are to be set up under the bill was responsible for a debate in which some heat was introduced by members on both sides of the House.

Afterwards the second stage of the Land Bond Bill was passed, and the next stage will be taken to-day.

FUEL FOR THE FACTORIES.

On the Committee stage of the Sugar Manufacture Bill,

Mr. F. MacDERMOT (C.P., Roscommon) moved an amendment to the schedule, to add the following new paragraph: "That, except under licence from the Minister, all fuel used in the company's factories shall be of Irish origin." He said that the company was formed to do everything they could in the ordinary course of business to develop the resources of the State, and it was important to raise the question of fuel now before the sites for the factories were decided on. If it was understood that it was to be the policy of the Government to use Irish fuel in the factories, that should be known before the sites were fixed. Boyle, which was one of the places claiming the privilege of having a factory, was eminently well situated for taking advantage of the fuel resources of the Arigna area.

The MINISTER FOR FINANCE (Mr. Sean MacEntee) said that naturally the principle involved in the amendment would have the sympathetic consideration of the Government, but the question arose, whether this was the proper time to bring it up, or if it was the type of thing that ought to appear in the Articles of Association of the company. If the House did decide that a condition of this kind should be enacted, he had great difficulty about whether this would be the particular bill in which it should appear.

Mr. MacDERMOT said that if the Minister objected to putting the clause in the Articles of Association he should not object to having it put in the bill itself.

The MINISTER FOR FINANCE said that the Minister would have the power to appoint directors, and they naturally would endeavour to conform with the general policy of the Government in regard to Irish industries and Irish fuel. He suggested that the amendment was unnecessary.

Mr. MacDERMOT said that if the selection of sites was left to a committee of experts it was quite possible that they would select sites away from Irish fuel districts, because they might think they were more independent without Irish fuel.

THE CARLOW FACTORY.

The MINISTER FOR INDUSTRY AND COMMERCE (Mr. Sean Lemass) said that at the present time the Carlow Factory was using Irish coal to a large extent, and from the information available it appeared to have been used successfully. He thought it was unnecessary to put any binding clause of this kind into the bill.

Mr. MacDERMOT said that if the Government had any real desire to operate the principle of the amendment they could put the amendment in the bill. The attitude of the Government was thoroughly unsatisfactory.

Mr. MacENTEE said that there was no need for the bill to empower the Minister to issue licences for the importation of fuel, as no fuel could be used in the country unless it was of Irish origin or imported under licence.

FUEL FOR BOILERS.

Mr. DOCKRELL (Cumann na nGaedheal, Dublin Co.) said that if Irish coal was to be used a furnace of a certain type would have to be installed in the factory, and that was a subject which ought to be considered in the beginning. Irish coal could not with satisfaction be burned in probably the majority of furnaces intended for foreign coal. Irish fuel could be used only in suitable boilers, and the point he wished to make was that they could not have a type of factory which would use Irish or foreign coal or turf with efficiency.

Mr. MacENTEE said that the experiments that were carried out in Castlecomer with Irish coal proved that it could be used economically in the particular type of boiler installed there. This bill was conceived solely for the formation of a company, and the amendment was merely a political demonstration, and it was not going to help Irish trade.

THE GREAT LICENSER.

Mr. COSGRAVE (C. na nG., Cork) said that Mr. MacEntee's reply was silly. The amendment was put down with a definite purpose. If the Government were in earnest in supporting Irish manufacture and the production of Irish fuel, they would have thought of changing the form of the amendment and left some of the social functions of the past few weeks alone. This Government was the greatest licenser ever heard of. Scarcely a single measure passed by them but had given authority to license somebody or other, or something or other arriving into the country. The amendment had not been examined by the Government. If there was one word more than there should be in it, it was described as extravagant by the plutocrats, who were spending money lavishly in every direction.

Mr. LEMASS asked Mr. Cosgrave if he proposed to vote for the amendment.

Mr. COSGRAVE—Sure.

Mr. MacDERMOT said that the Government was romantically generous towards the sugar beet company in this bill.

PARTY POLICY.

Mr. LEMASS said that the Government were merely protecting the industry. The policy of the Cumann na nGaedheal Party, as it now appeared, was that no protected industry should be allowed to use fuel that was not of Irish origin except by licence. If this was the policy of that party, he was delighted; it was a welcome change. He would draw the attention of the Executive Council to it immediately, so that when they would bring in legislation to this effect, if there were protests from industrialists, he could say that it was being done at the unanimous desire of the Cumann na nGaedheal, the Centre Party and Fianna Fail. He knew that the policy of Cumann na nGaedheal was to vote against the Government in every case. He wanted to know if they were supporting this amendment in consequence of any plank in their policy.

It was the Government's policy to secure a more intensive use of Irish fuel, and as far as possible that would be given effect to. The companies will be required to use Irish fuel as far as possible, and the directors appointed by the Government would have instructions to that end. The Government was at the moment carrying out experiments with a view to the greater development of the coal resources.

Mr. J. FitzGERALD-KENNEY (C. na nG., Mayo) said that, if the Minister for Industry and Commerce had prohibited the importation of foreign coal into the country, then they would have to use Irish fuel. It appeared to him that the Minister for Finance had run into an awkward position, and all the brotherly love and ability of the Minister for Industry and Commerce could not extricate him.

Mr. CORRY (F.F., Cork, E.) said that they had been abused by the Opposition because of their efforts to have Irish fuel used in the country. The amendment was ridiculous, because the Executive Council had given a definite guarantee by their own action in regard to the use of Irish fuel. People had used the arguments that they were imposing Irish fuel where it was impossible to use it.

THE COST OF SUGAR.

Mr. W. T. COSGRAVE (C. na nG., Cork City) said that, if the Minister had told them, and proved, that the use of Irish coal would be a heavier proportionate cost in the manufacture of sugar, then he would be prepared to withdraw his support from the amendment. Sugar was costing 10s. a cwt. delivered at the quays, and the manufacture of sugar was going to cost 20s.

Mr. LEMASS—We can produce it at 10s. per cwt. if the farmers are prepared to produce it at the price.

Mr. COSGRAVE—Don't be interjecting silly remarks. We want no nonsense about the proposition.

Mr. LEMASS said that he had explained that the use of Irish coal in the Carlow factory had reduced manufacturing costs. The use of Arigna coal in the factory at Boyle would make it much cheaper. The only question was, whether it was necessary to put in the Articles of Association of the company an amendment of the kind suggested. In so far as Irish coal could be used it would be used.

POSITION OF THE RAILWAYS.

Mr. J. COBURN (Ind., Louth) said that on the Minister's own admission the amendment should be accepted. What concern had the Minister for old industries like the railways, which at the moment were giving employment to anything from 15,000 to 17,000 men. How were they going to be placed with an imposition of 5s. a ton on coal.

Mr. LEMASS—I do not know what this has to do with the amendment.

He did not know, he continued, what was the objection by the Government to the the amendment except, perhaps, that it was impertinence on the part of a West Britisher and Imperialist—as he was called outside by Fianna Fail—like Deputy MacDermot, to introduce such a one. It would seem that the other members in the House must wait for Fianna Fail to take action to protect Irish minerals and industries. If the Minister had any moral courage in dealing with the amendment, and stated that this would unduly handicap those in charge of these factories, he would be the first to adopt the Minister's viewpoint. Instead, the Minister adopted a childish attitude. It seemed that it was the Government's view that nothing good could come from the Opposition in the House.

Mr. CLERY (Fianna Fail, Mayo, N.) said that there was now an atmosphere abroad for the consumption of Irish goods that had not existed since 1919. The Government had advocated, and always had advocated, the consumption of Irish goods, and now that the Government had gone ahead with its programme of providing Irish fuel Cumann na nGaedheal and the Centre Party came along and said: "We will see that nothing but Irish coal is used in these factories."

THE GROWING OF BEET.

Mr. P. BELTON (Cumann na nGaedheal, Dublin Co.) recalled that the Minister for Finance had said on a former occasion that Castlecomer coal was being used very satisfactorily in the Carlow factory. Then what objection had he to the present amendment. In 1925, when official experiments were made by the Department of Agriculture, no Fianna Fail deputies took part, and he claimed that it was Cumann na nGaedheal deputies who had introduced sugar beet growing to this country. Now the Fianna Fail Government were going to produce sugar at 25s. a cwt., and give the farmer only 6s. a cwt. as his share.

The Minister for Industry and Commerce (Mr. LEMASS) said that Deputy Belton's figures were all wrong.

Mr. BELTON said that the areas in which peat and coal were produced in the Free State were not beet growing areas, and, as the people there would have to pay the 25s. a cwt., they should get a quid pro quo for their expenditure in having their fuel used in the factories. He mentioned that in the official list of those who carried out beet growing experiments in 1925 he found the name of Mick Noonan, an ex-Cumann na nGaedheal deputy, but he did not find the name of Deputy Corry.

Mr. CORRY (F.F., Cork E.)—I was growing beet when you were a salaried British Civil Servant.

Mr. BELTON said that some of the Fianna Fail Ministers would not know a field of sugar beet from a field of oats, and none of them had ever helped to introduce beet growing.

Mr. T. HARRIS (F.F., Kildare) said that Deputy Belton was possibly paid for growing it.

Mr. BELTON said that he was not paid, and in addition to growing an acre for the Department of Agriculture in 1925 as an experiment, he had sent to Germany for special seed, and had grown another acre which he had been unable to sell even for feeding cows, and which rotted on him.

On a division the amendment was defeated by 53 votes against 35.

The Committee stage was passed, and the report stage was fixed for to-morrow.

MINISTER'S COMPLAINT.

Before the second stage of the Land Bond Bill was taken, Mr. MacEntee, Minister for Finance, rose and reverted to the speech made by Mr. Cosgrave on the previous bill, and complained that with his usual ill-manners the Deputy had referred to permanent officials who were provided under the old régime as under the present Government with special seats in the House, and had to listen to all the debates that went on, but were not within the ambit of the House. Deputy Cosgrave, he maintained, had made reference to these gentlemen in a statement, "There they are enough of them to form fours." He (Mr. MacEntee) thought that statement should be withdrawn.

The Speaker said he regarded the reference as frivolous.

Mr. COSGRAVE said he had a long experience of the permanent officials, and no one had greater respect for them while in office and out of office than he had. They were of great assistance to him when leader of the House, and he was sure they were of the same great assistance to the present Ministry, which was in more need of that assistance.

Mr. MacENTEE asked again that the reference should be withdrawn, but the Speaker called Orders of the day.

LAND BOND BILL.

THE QUESTION OF REDEMPTION.

Mr. MacENTEE moved the second stage of the Land Bill, and said that it covered all cases which were pending at the date when the British Government guarantee expired, whether the lands were tenanted or untenanted. It was expected that £700,000 worth of land bonds would be required to finance these pending cases, but in order to allow a margin for safety the figure of one million had been inserted in the bill. The bill in all other particulars followed closely the Land Bond Act of 1925, and provided that a separate account should be maintained for the new land bonds, and that provision regarding sinking fund, redemption, etc., would be the same. The bill dealt only with pending cases, and gives power only to issue bonds to such value as will be required to finance those pending cases.

Mr. RODDY (C. na nG., Sligo-Leitrim) said that the Minister had given no indication concerning the rate of issue and interest under the 1933 measure. The amount that the Minister intended to raise under this bill would finance operations only for a few months.

Mr. BELTON drew attention to the fact that there was not a quorum present, and several members rushed into the House.

Mr. RODDY asked if the Minister intended to introduce another bill next year. This bill had no relation to the Land Act of 1923. The Minister would have to introduce at least three Land Bond Bills during the next three or four years.

A BORROWING BILL.

Mr. BELTON (C. na nG., Dublin, North) said that he expected that the Minister for Finance would deal with the security he had to offer under this bill. When those Bonds came to be redeemed thirty years hence the Minister had not stated in what currency the Bonds would be redeemed. Would they be redeemed at sterling, or in any other currency created by the then Minister for Finance? Stripped of its padding, this was a bill to borrow one million pounds, which must be repaid at the end of thirty years. They were undertaking to collect the interest from people at 4 per cent. and to pay the interest whether they collected it or not. It was interesting to know in what currency the money would be repaid. If it was to be repaid in sterling, it meant that the famous Republic was postponed for thirty years. They surely could not be a Republic and repay in British money; and, if it was not sterling, they ought to know what it was.

Mr. MacENTEE (Minister for Finance) said that it was not correct to state that the Act would not come into operation for three or four years. As soon as the Act became law it would be given immediate effect, and a new Land Bonds Bill would be introduced. He did not intend to follow Deputy Belton into the realms of raimeis. Mr. Belton was the bad halfpenny of Irish politics—every party tried to get rid of him.

Mr. BELTON—I never tried to join the British Army, like the Minister.

The second stage was passed without a division, and the next stage will be taken to-day.

OTHER MEASURES.

The Approved Investments Bill passed the Committee and remaining stages.

The second stage of the Merchant Shipping (International Labour Conventions) Bill passed the second reading, and the Committee stage was fixed for to-day.

The MINISTER for FINANCE said that the ordinary Parliamentary business would make it convenient for the Sugar Beet Bill to be taken on Thursday instead of Friday, because there was every possibility that the House might not sit on Friday. He asked the House to discharge the Order that the report stage of the bill be taken on Friday, and said that if any objection were made on Thursday the bill would be taken on Friday.

This was agreed to.

The House adjourned until 3 p.m. to-day.

FREE STATE EGG-LAYING TEST.

POSITION OF THE BREEDS.

The tenth four-weekly report issued by the Irish Free State Department of Agriculture in connection with the egg-laying competition which is being conducted at the Munster Institute, Cork, covers the period 12th October to 18th July, and states that the health and the condition of the pullets during the tenth period remained satisfactory. Despite the prevalence of broodiness and moulting, production was fairly good. A total of 156 birds were cooped for broodiness, and nine deaths were recorded during the four weeks.

In the duck section the general condition of the flock was good. The majority of the birds, however, were commencing to moult, and, in consequence, the egg yield for the period was low.

Excluding eggs which were under the weight prescribed for second grade, and making allowance for the death of fifty-four pullets and one duck since 12th October (the date of the commencement of the test), the average egg yield per bird for each of the competing breeds was as follows:—

Pullets.	Tenth period (21st June to 18th July).	To date (12th Oct. to 18th July).
White Wyandotte (249 pullets)	14.2	174.7
Rhode Island Red (159 pullets)	13.6	166.1
White Leghorn (80 pullets)	16.6	183.5
Buff Rock (57 pullets)	12.8	176.8
Barred Rock (16 pullets)	15.0	184.0
Light Sussex (11 pullets)	8.2	132.3
Ducks.
Khaki Campbell (23 ducks)	15.8	203.0
Indian Runner (8 ducks)	16.0	210.2

Pen No. 44 (Rhode Island Red), owned by Miss F. Gleeson, Tinarane, Killaloe, County Clare, still leads with a score of 1,265 eggs, value £6 4s. 9d.

In the duck section, pen No. 5 (Indian Runner), owned by Mrs. E. Loughrey, Drumumna, Crusheen, County Clare, still leads with a score of 974 eggs, value £3 18s. 10d.

Mr. Arthur Henderson, who has been adopted as Labour candidate for the forthcoming Clay Cross by-election, visited the division yesterday, and toured over a dozen centres. At the various stops he was cheered by miners and others who assembled to hear him speak.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

OFFICIAL CHARGED.

THE CATTLE BOUNTY CASE PROCEEDS.

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN.)

Charles Deegan (37), a clerical officer in the Department of Agriculture, was charged on remand with the forging and uttering of claims in respect of subsidy on cattle exported from the Free State to the amount of £650. Deegan was further charged with having conspired with others to obtain by false pretences a sum of money from the Paymaster-General.

The other persons charged are:—

Jack Woods, Woodside Lairage, Birkenhead, cattle salesman;

William G. Woods, Kells, Co. Meath, cattle dealer;

Patrick Woods, Hillside, Carrickmacross, Co. Monaghan, Cattle dealer; and

George Mohan, rear of 42 Merrion square, cattle drover, who are charged jointly with attempting to obtain a sum of £609 by false pretences from the Paymaster-General.

Jack, William and Patrick Woods and Mohan were charged with inducing a public officer (Charles Deegan) to forge a document and thereby obtain £762, in respect of the commission of which offence they paid Deegan £10.

Mr. Kevin Haugh (instructed by Mr. T. Clarke, of the Chief State Solicitor's Office) prosecuted.

Mr. L. Trant-McCarthy, solicitor, appeared for Deegan; Mr. Basil McGuckin, S.C., and Mr. F. M. Duffy (instructed by Mr. T. R. Callan) for all the other defendants.

Detective Sergeant O'Neill, giving evidence in respect of the fresh charges relating to the alleged attempt to obtain £609 by false pretences, said that, when charged and cautioned that morning, Jack Woods said: "I have no statement to make, only not guilty." The other three men each said that they were not guilty. Witness said that he showed a pay order for £799 to Jack Woods, who admitted his signature on it, and also in a Great Northern Railway contract book, dealing with the conveyance of cattle across the border, he admitted his signature.

THE CLAIMS.

Francis Dowling, an executive officer in the accounts branch of the Department of Agriculture, said, in evidence, that on the 12th July, Deegan came to his office with a bundle of documents, saying that he had an urgent payment to make that day to Jack Woods for cattle. Witness refused to make the payments then as the notice was too short. Deegan took the papers away and brought them back at 9.45 next morning, and witness promised to make the payments later. Soon afterwards witness proceeded to examine the documents, which consisted of some eight claims for bounty in respect of cattle exported to Northern Ireland. The claim summary had apparently been initialled by one of the responsible officers, Mr. Brendan O'Herlihy, but witness found that the particulars of the cattle on the British Customs receipts for duty paid did not correspond in some cases with those given on the claim. Witness retained the documents and telephoned for Mr. Wafer, Deegan's superior officer.

Mr. Wafer did not come, but he sent Deegan. Witness pointed out to Deegan that cattle described on the British Customs as yearlings appeared on the claim summary as cattle "two years old and upwards," and he told Deegan that he was not satisfied that to pay would be in order. Deegan examined the Customs receipts and the claims, and said that they were approved in mistake, that Woods was not entitled to any subsidy for yearling cattle, and added—"It was a good job you noticed it." Deegan then took the papers away, saying that he would have them cancelled.

The defendants were further remanded on bail.

INSURANCE FRAUD CHARGE

An elderly woman named Mary Turner was charged with obtaining £13 10s. by false pretences from the City of Dublin Insurance Company. The false pretence alleged was that, by means of a death certificate, she represented to the company that her daughter, Lucy, who had been insured with the company, was dead, whereas Lucy was alive at the time and was still alive.

Detective Officer Gordon gave evidence that the defendant occupied a room at 64 North King street. He went there on previous afternoon and asked her what family she had. She said she had three sons and two daughters, Mary and Ellen. He asked her if she had a daughter named Lucy, and defendant replied that she had, but that Lucy was dead. He then arrested her on the charge set out above and cautioned her. Before he left the house he asked her if she had any of the £13 10s. left, and she replied, "No; I drank the lot." When charged later she made a statement in which she said: I obtained the money, and it was only part of my own money I drew. I have paid hundreds to the society. I used the money I drew and enjoyed myself.

Mr. Cussen—Is Lucy dead?

Witness—No, she is very much alive.

After other evidence had been given, Lucy Turner was called, and in the witness-box said that she was sick last year and knew that her mother had had her insured.

Mr. Cussen—Here is a poor child in the witness-box giving evidence and yet I hold in my hand a certificate of her death on 22nd June last, given presumably on the information of her mother.

The defendant was remanded for a week on bail.

ALLEGED LIBELLOUS LETTERS.

A young unmarried woman, Nora Geraghty, of St. Joseph's avenue, Drumcondra, was sent for trial to the Circuit Court, charged with having written offensive and libellous letters to women residing in St. Alphonsus avenue, Drumcondra, and one concerning a married woman, a native of Dublin, who is now residing in Yorkshire. She was also charged with having written a libellous letter to Sergeant McShane, Mountjoy Station, in October and November last. Bail was allowed.

Mr. T. Clarke (Chief State Solicitor's Office) prosecuted, and Mr. L. Trant McCarthy, solicitor, defended.

AMMONIA IN EYE.

A remand for a week was ordered in the case in which Frank Ryan, described as a chemist's assistant, with an address in Lower Leeson street, was charged with having, between 1 and 2 a.m. yesterday morning, caused grievous bodily harm to Olive Yeates by throwing a quantity of liquid ammonia from a bottle and causing her to be rendered unconscious by the fumes.

Olive Yeates was charged with throwing liquid ammonia into Ryan's face, causing serious injury to his right eye.

GOVERNMENT'S WAGE-CUTTING.

T.U.C. LEADER'S CHARGE.

CONFERENCE IN KILLARNEY.

FROM OUR REPORTER.

KILLARNEY, Wednesday.

MR. S. P. CAMPBELL, in his presidential address, delivered this morning to the Irish Trades Union Congress, said that the present Government had promised a policy to cure industrial ills, but eighteen months had now elapsed since they took office, and yet the destitution of unemployed persons had grown greater.

He criticised the wage-cutting policy of the Government, and said that the sternest opposition must be offered to any attempt to reduce the standard of living; but, on the other hand, he thought that the economic "war" should be pursued more energetically by the Government; it could be made a source of great advantage in substituting a more balanced economy for the present state of affairs.

NEW SOCIAL OUTLOOK.

He opened his address by referring to the breakdown of the Economic Conference in London, and recalled the "Rerum Novarum" Encyclical of Pope Leo XIII. If the capitalists and bankers, he said, had followed the teachings laid down in that document, many of the social ills which beset the modern world would not have arisen. The lowering of tariffs had been suggested as one remedy, but this would be useless under the present capitalist system, and would mean that the countries with the highest wage standards would be compelled to reduce wages to the level of their lowest competitor, or starve. The real solution was a new social outlook, and the thirty millions of unemployed persons could not be re-absorbed into industry unless the whole intent and purpose of industry was changed.

Turning to home affairs, he said that without independence in the political, financial and economic fields, nationhood could not be established, and the Irish working-class had given freely of its best in the struggle for freedom. The punitive tariffs imposed on our exports was an instance of what one might expect when this country asserted its rights. These tariffs had now been in existence for over twelve months in the hope that the people of this country would tire of the struggle and return to the payment of moneys which were never morally due, and to which no legal claim could apparently be sustained.

THE STATE AND BANKS.

He thought he would be expressing the opinion of organised trades unionists when he said that the economic "war" should be more energetically pursued by the Government. President de Valera should take time by the forelock, as he had often said he would do, and organise industries directly under the ægis of the State. Banking was the hub of the modern financial and economic position, and the subservience of the modern state to the control of private banking was an ignominious position for any Government to be compelled to occupy. Only the State had the right to say whether the policy of private bankers was best suited to meet the needs of industry, and an absolute supervision of banking policy by the State was essential if the industries of the country were to be safeguarded.

TILLAGE NEED.

In respect of land, the fullest use must be made of the soil of the country. Thousands of Irish people were virtually starving while much good land lay untilled. Now, more than ever, when the cattle trade connection with Great Britain was declining, the Government should bring forward a land policy which would plant large numbers of the population in suitable holdings, while the cultivation of land for self-sustenance by organised communities of voluntary workers should be seriously considered.

The economic "war," therefore, could be made a source of great advantage, for, under its pressure and prosecution, a well-thought-out and balanced economy could supplant the dangerous, unbalanced dependence of this country on an outsider for much of its principal industrial requirements. The right of ownership in land should be accompanied by the responsibility for its right use, and the owners of land must not be allowed to let it lie fallow and unused.

STILL IN DISTRESS.

"The present Government Party," he continued, "stated during recent elections that they had a plan and a policy to cure industrial ills and agrarian distress, but they are now eighteen months in office, and, despite some well-meaning efforts in certain directions, no diminution seems to have taken place in the number of destitute persons who must be maintained by Poor Law relief."

Great numbers of workers, he added, had voted for the Government Party because of the roseate promises held out to them; but the fulfilment of many of these promises could only be realised when a large portion of the Labour programme had been carried into legislative form. At the moment, the destitution of the unemployed had grown greater; the owners of industry did not require them, and all the appeals of the Government to these owners to expand their businesses would not avail anything. These workers would be compelled to realise eventually that there was but one hope for them, and that was in the Labour movement. "The Labour movement," he said, "was good enough and great enough for James Connolly to express all his republican and social ideas; it should, therefore, be good and great enough for all of us."

Tested by its policy on outstanding questions, such as land, banking, fisheries, transport, and the general economic organisation of the country, the present Government was not moving sufficiently fast. Its only panacea, apparently, was the fatuous and forlorn one of appealing to private enterprise, accompanied by wage-cuts for all grades of State employés. No more foolish policy could be embarked upon, and there was no improvement on the policy of its predecessors, whose ten years of wage reductions was being emulated by the present Government.

WAGE-CUTTING EXAMPLE.

The wage-cutting policy of the Government was an example and head-line to private employers, and hence railway directors and others joined in the hue and cry of attempting to make the country economically prosperous by the absurd method of reducing the purchasing power of its people. "To all these efforts to reduce the standard of living of the Irish workers," he said, "the sternest opposition must be offered. In our trade unions we have the means of successfully combatting all the attacks on our position, and, not only must we prepare to meet these attacks by defensive means, but also prepare for the offence, as the offensive is the best defensive."

Throughout the year, he stated, the National Executive had been busy with a very large number of questions, the most important of which were concerned with general unemployment, traffic railways, wage-fixing machinery, unemployment insurance, the forty-hour week, and so on. Of these subjects he would like to select for special mention the forty-hour week, as the question was one of the greatest importance to the organised workers. Since Congress last met the proposal had become one of practical politics, for Italy had asked the League of Nations to make a forty-hour week the standard in all affiliated countries. For the moment, reaction had triumphed at Geneva, but much would be heard of the proposal in the immediate future.

He concluded by saying that the country would, in a short time, consummate its present economic hopes, and then the demand for further sacrifices from Labour would be made. They could, however, by intense work and loyalty arouse a more forward spirit, which would be their movement's greatest insurance. By utilising to the fullest extent the trades unions and the political party they could maintain what they had won and look confidently to the future.

Mr. Campbell referred, with regret, to the recent death of Mr. James Carr, of Limerick, a member of the National Executive, and Congress passed a vote of sympathy with the relatives.

"CRUCIAL PERIOD."

There were over one hundred delegates, who were welcomed by Mr. Eugene O'Sullivan, Chairman of the Killarney Urban Council, and Mr. John E. Moriarty, Secretary of the Killarney branch, Irish National Teachers' Organisation.

Mr. O'Sullivan pointed out that the Congress was meeting at a crucial period in the history of the Free State. "Not only will you have to consider the interests of the various working bodies you represent," he said, "but your deliberations are bound to react on the fortunes of the country. I am sure these considerations will be very properly dealt with, because Irish Labour never failed the country in its hour of need."

MR. NORTON'S VIEWS.

A vote of thanks to the President, which was passed, was moved by Mr. Norton, T.D., who said that never was it easier than at present to give people the wherewithal to lead decent lives. The present Government promised much at election times, but failed to redeem their promises when the elections were over. "The attack on this nation by punitive tariffs," he continued, "is an attack which must be resisted not merely by the trade union and labour movement, but by the whole nation. And, if it should succeed, there will be no such thing as economic liberty in this nation, and it will sink back into being another Lancashire or Yorkshire. We Irishmen are not going to stand for that kind of dwarfed economic status, but it is time for the Government to realise that the country is entitled to more courage, leadership and better statesmanship than it has had for the past eighteen months. In any attack which this Government is going to make on poverty and unemployment to strengthen our industrial arm, the labour movement is prepared to co-operate. It cannot be said that we were ever in the rearguard when it came to leading this nation to national freedom, or to economic freedom."

Going on to speak of the growth of dictatorships in Europe, Mr. Norton said that they had seen the results in Germany, where the whole trade union movement had been battered, and its funds stolen by the Hitlerite movement, which carried on, because it had a bludgeon in both hands. "We have seen in this country," he said, "the growth of a dictatorship, which is going to be modelled on the best Hitlerite methods; but no matter what form dictatorship takes, no matter who is at the lead, we will fight in the most uncompromising manner any attempt to destroy the democratic political institutions which have been built up by the working classes."

Mr. P. T. Daly, Secretary, Dublin Trades Council, said that attempts were made to stop Labour spokesmen from preaching their ideals by people who in days gone by had preached ideals which were now accomplished facts. They should tell the people who tried to stop them that these ideals were as dear to them as those other ideals had been to those who preached them. There was no limit to the ideals of the Irish people.

Senator M. Duffy also spoke.

ESCAPED MAN RECAPTURED.

WALKED OUT OF POLICE STATION.

Donald Edward Filer (23), a Bristol engineer, who escaped from Bristol Central Police Station on Tuesday night while being exercised in the yard, was re-captured last night at Westbury-on-Tyne, about three miles away.

Information was given that a man answering Filer's description was seen in the Sea Mills district, near Bristol, and a wide police cordon was immediately drawn around the area. Filer was walking down Westbury-on-Trym hill when he was arrested by Sergeant Poole. He was taken to the police station, and will appear at court to-day.

The name of Donald Edward Filer was called yesterday at Bristol Police Court to answer a charge of stealing a motor car and other articles, valued at £215, at Clifton on July 27.

Chief Inspector Wood informed the Bench that he was absent, and said that he was detained in a cell at the Central Police Station on Tuesday night, when he took advantage of the privilege given him for exercise.

The case was adjourned sine die.

Mr. Anthony Garrick, a Londoner, 22 years of age, made an unsuccessful attempt yesterday afternoon to paddle from Dover to France on a dolphin float. He left Dover at 3.55, but at 5.30 he had to give up after drifting three miles to the westward, and when he was about half a mile from the shore.

DUNDALK MURDER CHARGE.

WIFE COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

At Dundalk yesterday Mrs. Kate Duffy, aged 50, was charged with the wilful murder of her husband, Michael, aged 70 years, by shooting him with a revolver.

Mrs. Duffy was not placed in the dock, but was given a seat opposite the District Justice. She never spoke during the hearing, but kept praying on her beads.

Dr. Macauley, Dublin, said that Duffy, who was a Blackrock (County Louth) publican, had a bullet wound in the jaw. When an operation was about to take place at the Mater Misericordiæ Hospital, he collapsed and died. Death was due to the bullet wound, the cause of death being accelerated by the anæsthetic.

Dr. Nial McGahon said that when he asked Duffy at the hospital about the shooting, he answered: "She did not mean to do it. She was always a good wife to me."

Kathleen Duffy, a daughter of the prisoner, said that she took the revolver from her mother, who was shouting that her father had been shot, but she did not say who shot him.

Answering Mr. Russell, solicitor for the accused, the girl said her parents were always on the best of terms. Two months earlier her mother had influenza.

Mrs. Duffy was returned for trial in custody to the Central Criminal Court.

R.O.P. IN CORK.

THE LAYING OF A PIPE LINE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Wednesday.

At the Cork Harbour Board to-day, Mr. R. Wallace presiding, in connection with an application from Russian Oil Products, Ltd., for permission to lay a pipe line on the south deepwater quay, and requesting that the cost of opening up and closing the roadway be borne by the Board, the Chairman said that a Committee of the Board had an interview with three representatives of Russian Oil Products this morning. The R.O.P. was supplying Cork and district at present from Haulbowline, supplies being brought from Haulbowline to Cobh by barge. The Cork installation would be supplied from Haulbowline with, approximately, seventy tons per week. The R.O.P. had no intention of interfering with the present uses of the Haulbowline installation.

The Cork installation had leased a site of one acre from Messrs. Ford, with the option of two acres. On the one-acre site the maximum storage capacity would be about 500 tons, and the intention was to supply Cork and the South of Ireland within a radius of seventy miles. If the Cork installation maximum developed, as they hoped it would, R.O.P. had very ambitious schemes in mind in connection with the uses of Cork Harbour.

The committee had spent a few hours visiting the site, and the placing of two grid boxes at the quay would ensure that there would be no interference with existing shipping conditions. The committee was unanimous in granting permission.

Mr. O'Shea said that the Chairman was scarcely justified in saying that the Committee arrived at any final decision. The scheme was not yet entirely above objection from the point of view of those interested in the new mills, and he considered that the matter was a question for experts to decide as to whether or not the new milling company would be prejudiced by this Russian proposal.

The Lord Mayor asked if there had been any complaint from the millers, and received a reply in the negative.

Mr. O'Shea—I move that this matter be not decided to-day. I ask that it be deferred for the new milling people to consult their experts.

Mr. Sullivan supported the motion, and objected to any concession being given to Russia, which had been trying to introduce Communism into the city. He would not give them any consideration, and would have nothing to do with them. If the Board granted the permission, the vengeance of God would fall on it.

Mr. Mercier pointed out the facilities that were being given at the request of the Government, and said that the Board had lost revenue previously owing to the attitude adopted to a similar application.

Eventually the Board agreed to defer the further consideration of the matter to the next meeting, without hearing the Russian Oil Products' representatives, who were in attendance.

PREVENTION OF CRUELTY.

At yesterday's meeting of the Dublin Board of Assistance, on the motion of Alderman Medlar, seconded by Mr. W. J. O'Hara, it was decided to increase the annual subscription to the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children from £25 to £50.

Alderman Medlar spoke of the excellent work which was done by the Society, and of the interest taken in that work by Mrs. Maud Walsh, and the inspector, Mrs. Clarke.

The number of cases relieved was an increase of 1,384 compared with the corresponding period of last year, and the increase in cost was £1,342 18s. 6d.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

Yesterday's sitting of the Dail was largely occupied with a debate on the Government's Sugar Bill.—(Page 5.)

The Italian fliers may now start to-morrow morning. If unable to leave before August 10th, the lateness of the season will compel the southern route across the Atlantic to be chosen, cutting out Valentia Island.—(Page 7.)

Mr. S. P. Campbell (President), speaking at the opening of the Irish Trades Union Congress in Killarney yesterday, criticised the wage-cutting policy of the Government, and said that the sternest opposition must be offered to such measures. Over one hundred delegates attended.—(Page 5.)

General O'Duffy's firearms—a Service revolver and a revolver that was in the hands of Michael Collins when he was shot—were seized by the police yesterday.—(Page 7.)

Our Political Correspondent to-day gives some particulars of recent secret efforts to renew economic peace negotiations between the Free State and Great Britain.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD.

President Roosevelt has now started a "Buy Now" campaign to boost prices, and the Government has approved a credit expansion scheme for industry.—(Page 7.)

Nazi organisation in former German colonies is causing perturbation.—(Page 7.)

It is explained that the object of bombing the hostile tribes on the frontier is to make their lives so uncomfortable that they will prefer to capitulate.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING.

At Galway yesterday Golden George won the Salthill Plate, Believe Me the Mervue Plate, Red Park the Galway Plate, Red Hillman the Moyode Plate, Lacatoi the Ballybrit Plate, and Dope King the Stewards' Plate.—(Page 10.)

England's Opportunity.

There are a few items of unpleasant significance to the Free State in the latest returns of the British Board of Agriculture. Chief among them is the intimation that the area under rough grazings has increased by 39,000 acres since June of last year. This increase suggests that the farmers of Great Britain, whose cattle trade has been on the wane for many years past, have realised that the tide has turned and that new prospects are opening before the domestic stockbreeder. He has fought in recent years against heavy odds. Enlarged imports of frozen and chilled beef from Argentina and New Zealand have been dulling the people's palate to the superior, if more costly, virtues of fresh meat; and the fresh meat market itself has been filched by the better organised cattle industry of the Free State. Now the position is changed. Britain, indeed, has imposed no positive duties on imports of meat from Argentina and the Dominions; but she has subjected those imports to a quota system, whose effect will be to improve the chances of the British producer. Furthermore, the paramount competition of the Free State has been reduced to comparatively harmless proportions by the folly of her rulers. Live stock from the Free State no longer enjoys the favoured position that it used to hold on the British market. Far fewer beasts are being exported from Dublin, because the breeders—for all the poor assistance of President de Valera's bounties—cannot obtain a profit on their sales.

The position, however, is more serious for the Free State than any mere comparison of trade figures would suggest. They can tell only what has occurred. They reveal the material damage that has been inflicted already by the economic war; but they give no indication of what is likely to happen in the future. The fact is that the economic war, in its twelve months of continuance, has struck a grievous and lasting blow at the Free State's prosperity. Things never will be what they were. Mr. de Valera's conduct of the Anglo-Irish dispute, in the first place, has gone far to shatter the confidence which the British consumer reposed in his Irish supplier. There are many people in England to-day who have resolved never again to eat Irish meat or Irish butter or Irish eggs; for they have acquired a not unjustified impression that the Free State's hatred of Great Britain is unending, and they simply will not encourage the trade of an enemy. In the second place, the Free State farmer has lost his grip on many marketing centres in Great Britain because the economic war has caused such a dislocation of supplies from Ireland that the local breeders have been enabled to step in and make up the deficit. Having once acquired a hold upon these centres, they will be in no hurry to let them go again. We may be certain that if there is any rumour of a stoppage of the economic war, the English farmers, terrified at the prospect of renewed Free State competition, will turn against their own Government.

Out of this economic war the British farmer, as opposed to the British manufacturer, can derive nothing but profit. It means, on the other hand, the annihilation of that economy on which Ireland has based her prosperity for the past century. Something can be saved from the wreck if Mr. de Valera consents to look for peace before the British farmers have consolidated their position; but if the war is allowed to drag on for another year, we doubt if any power on earth will restore a tithe of their old customers to the stockbreeders of the Free State. As the months pass, the loss of the British market brings the Free State more and more deeply into distress. The Government has thrown away a source of immense profit, but it has substituted nothing for that cornucopia. Its tillage plan depends for success on an atmosphere of peace, on a relative abundance of money, on public confidence. None of these conditions is present. The suddenly impoverished farmer cannot turn in a few months to a tillage policy; he must have money to live on while he is waiting for the crops to grow, and, thanks to the economic war, he has no money. He demands peace and confidence; he is invested by "private armies," as well as by rate collectors and importunate creditors, and does not know where he will be before the year is out. To add to his miseries, prices are rising, taxes are rising and rates are rising. Mr. de Valera's stage-management of the new Irish scene has been curiously clumsy. His policy can be justified now only by success; and it is not succeeding.

Vigil at Valentia.

The watchers at Valentia have been disappointed again. Early yesterday morning all was in readiness for the departure of the Italian air squadron from Newfoundland, but at the last moment a report of fog off the western coast of Ireland caused a postponement of the flight. If the weather clears, General Balbo may take off on Friday, and Ireland may have her opportunity to welcome him that night. The history of the enterprise, however, warns us that a further delay of several days, or even a week, is quite within the bounds of possibility. When at last the General and his men arrive, those who have watched with admiration their progress across a hemisphere will greet them with all the plaudits that a deed of courage and endurance demands. Already they have drawn universal attention to the excellence of Italian aircraft and to the bravery of Italian men. Yet, when the glory of the achievement—which no sane man will wish to diminish—is set aside, what is the value of the flight as a contribution to the conquest of the air? The future of flying is bound up with its application to commerce. To show that the aeroplane can be trusted to convey passengers and mails about the world with speed and safety is the real task of aviation. This expedition, by its very nature, can show nothing of the sort. The Italian machines can carry only a very little cargo of the lightest kind, and they can neither take off nor land in water which is even slightly rough. To ensure the safety of the squadron it has been necessary to take extraordinary precautions. Trawlers line the route, and meteorologists are stationed in mid-Atlantic to give notice of changes in the weather. At Valentia there are numbers of motor boats with lamps, and a search-light of prodigious power and range. The expense to all concerned is not small. One estimate puts it at two million pounds from start to finish. Should all go as well as we hope, the expedition will have proved that, given perfect weather, perfect workmanship and skilled pilots, it is possible for a flight of seaplanes to cross and re-cross the Atlantic if an army of helpers is maintained along the way. Experienced airmen have known as much for some time. If the two million pounds—or whatever sum proves to be in question when exaggeration is discounted—had been applied to solve the real problems of the air, the world would be the richer by new and valuable knowledge. Admittedly, it is the richer already by a new story of human achievement; but the time is approaching when we must ask whether courage might not be exploited in less futile endeavour. If a tramp steamer had set out from Italy on the day of the squadron's departure, its eight knots would have brought it to the New World and back, its business done, while the search light at Valentia was still unlit.

Help for Trawlers.

The British Government has taken belated steps to protect its fishing industry. For some years past the industry has been on the decline, and to-day hundreds of trawlers are lying uselessly in the ports because their owners have no longer a chance of earning a livelihood. The principal trouble lies in foreign competition, which has increased enormously of late. Foreign trawlers, for one reason or another, are able to work much more cheaply and efficiently than the British trawlers, and, since there has been hitherto no restriction on imports of fish, they have flooded the British market, depressing prices to the loss of the domestic fisherman. In the next place, much harm has been caused to the industry by the landing of small and immature fish from both British and foreign vessels. This practice has done a twofold disservice. In the first place, it has spoiled the fishing grounds around the British coasts, which to-day are very nearly "fished out"; and, in the second place, it has combined with the unrestricted flow of imports to reduce prices. This week, however, various new orders come into effect, which may improve the condition of the industry. One of them restricts foreign imports to 90 per cent. of their average over the last three years; others prohibit the use for deep sea fishing of nets with a small mesh, and the sale of fish below a certain prescribed size. Whether these orders will save the British trawlers is questionable; they do not appear to strike very deeply at the roots of the trouble. Yet they are far-reaching in comparison with the Free State's almost complete inattention to her fishing industry. The depopulation of Ireland's waters by foreign trawlers is still active, and, although the Government has promised means of defence, it is slow to provide them. Furthermore, the fisherman's price for his wares—for all the valuable work of the Sea Fisheries' Association—still compares pitifully with the price charged to the consumer.

Nazi Propaganda.

One of the most severe blows that were dealt at Germany by the peace treaties was the loss of her colonies. It must be admitted that the Germans, on the whole, were fairly good colonisers, and that their administration in Africa and elsewhere was reasonably successful. For better or for worse, however, all Germany's colonies were forfeited after the War; and ever since the signing of the Versailles Treaty there has been a continuous agitation in the Fatherland, urging their return. This movement has been given a strong impetus by the advent to power of the Nazi Party. Already the Nazis have been making trouble in the colonies. In the territory formerly known as German South-West Africa their propaganda has been so active that a motion was introduced in the Legislature seeking to prohibit Nazi agitation on the ground that it was likely to disturb the good relations between Europeans in the colony. When the matter was raised the German members of the Legislature left the House, but returned in order to vote, with the result that the motion was carried by a narrow majority of two votes. When the division was taken the Germans again left the House. It seems that they have been trying to import Nazi policy into South-West Africa, which is administered under a League of Nations mandate by the Government of the Union. They have tried to boycott the Jews, and generally have been making themselves unpleasant, to the grave embarrassment of other Europeans. From Tanganyika a like condition of affairs is reported, and even in Buenos Aires Nazi agitators have been giving trouble. The Government of South Africa has acted very wisely in seeking to put a stop to Nazi propaganda in "South-West." Hitlerism may be all right in Germany; in any other country it simply is a nuisance.

OUTINGS FOR CHILDREN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Mr. Ernest Kessell, C.B.E., Hon. Treasurer of the Pearson Fresh Air Fund, has forwarded a cheque for £230 to enable 3,000 of Dublin's poor children to be given the enjoyment of a day in the country and 60 delicate children a fortnight's holiday in suitable country surroundings.

During the past thirty-three years (through the kindness of the Pearson Fresh Air Fund) over 140,000 children have had their lives brightened by a day-long picnic of the simplest and most wholesome kind, but the generosity of the Pearson Fresh Air Fund does not enable us to provide for many other hundreds of equally poor and deserving children.

We, therefore, ask the co-operation of your readers. On the basis of 1s. 3d. for each child, special arrangements enable the children to have outing and ample refreshments.

Subscriptions may be sent to any of the following, who are the Managing Committee for this season:—

Mr. P. Rath, Belgrano, Merrion road; Mr. A. Dickson, Oakley Park, Carysfort avenue, Blackrock, and the undersigned.—Yours, etc.,

A. E. CAIRNS, 24 Lower Abbey street, and
J. T. WOOD LATIMER, 16 Fownes street, Hon. Treasurers;
JOHN HEALY, 12 North Great George's street, Hon. Secretary.

DULL SKIES AT GALWAY.

RAINCOATS THE ORDER OF THE DAY.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

GALWAY, Wednesday.

Despite the rain, the Galway racecourse presented a very animated scene at the first day of the annual races to-day. There was an enormous gathering of people from all over the country and a general air of bustle and excitement. There was an infectious good humour about the gathering, despite the almost continuous rain. The sun made puny attempts to shine, only to be quickly covered up again by grey clouds.

One felt all the charm of the West when standing out on the racecourse. The warm Atlantic breezes, the lilt of Western voices, the shrill cries of the various vendors and the thud of horses' hooves made as typical a race atmosphere as one could find in any part of Ireland. Added to this, the far-away stretch of bog and field to the Atlantic and the small thatched houses with the quaint stone walls, seen only in the West, helped to complete a most picturesque race scene.

The weather was too unfavourable even for tweeds. Raincoats, felt hats and stout shoes were the order of the day with ladies. The only spots of colour to be seen were the various browns, reds, green, and blues of the mackintoshes. There was a very good gathering, and it was extremely difficult to find even standing room.

Among those present were:—Lord and Lady Hemphill, Major and Mrs. Gough, Major and Mrs. Beamish, Major Darcy, Mr. James Smyth, Miss Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Palmer, Sir James Nugent, the Duc de Stacpoole, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lavery, Mr. Brereton Barry, Mr. Phil Smith, Mr. C. FRENCH POLITICIAN GOING TO RUSSIA.

M. HERRIOT ACCEPTS SOVIET INVITATION.

M. Herriot, the former French Prime Minister, is to visit Russia at the invitation of the Soviet Government.

"I shall not do anything there except use my eyes, study and talk with people," he said in an interview with Le Salut Public, of Lyons. "I am going, as I went in 1922, with the sole intention of trying to form an opinion. I am more and more of the opinion that we must go and see and converse, that we must knot our relations more tightly, and cultivate our personal friendships with those countries which one considers most remote from us in their culture, their mentality and their social state.

"The Soviet Government has invited me to visit the U.S.S.R. I shall go there all the more willingly because I am glad of the resumption of relations with Russia brought about by myself in 1925, and because I am proud of having been responsible for the signing of the pact of non-aggression between France and the Soviet.

"We must," added M. Herriot, "think of the political and economic future of our country, and not remain behind barbed wire."

FUNERAL OF COMMANDER BERESFORD, R.N.

The funeral took place to Ballywilliam, Portrush, last Monday, of Commander H. B. S. Beresford, R.N. (retired), late of Ballycastle, Co. Antrim. He was the fourth son of the late General Burford Beresford, of Craig Dhu Varren, Portrush, and Glen a Moyle Park, Derry. He entered the Royal Navy at an early age, and served on many of His Majesty's ships at the beginning of the Great War. He was on the Lowestoft in one of the first naval actions, which resulted in the loss of the Cressy, Aboukir, and the Hogue. He was mentioned several times in despatches, and awarded the 1914 Star, General Service, and Victory Medal, and the Croix de Guerre avec Palme.

During her motor trip in the Isle of Wight yesterday the Queen called on Princess Beatrice at Carisbrooke Castle, and later, accompanied by the Earl of Athlone, she visited Whippingham Church.

LONDON LETTER.

THE WAR DEBT.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

There are disquieting rumours from Washington that President Roosevelt will demand another instalment of the British War debt in December. If so, he will expect a larger sum than the token payment made in June. Furthermore, it appears that the United States will insist on payment in gold, according to the old agreement, and not in the form of silver—an easier method to this country. Any question of the revision of War debts will be reserved until next year, and will be conditional on the passing of a wave of prosperity over America. If the foregoing conditions are required the British Budget, which was balanced to show a slight surplus, but without any provision for the June payment, will be upset. Another thirty millions in December, in addition to the necessity for providing for what was paid in June, do not make a healthy prospect for the taxpayer, who was in hopes, with indications of increasing industrial activity, of securing some remission of taxation.

Doctors in the Services.

The new proposals affecting the medical branches of the fighting services will go a long way to adjust grievances that have been the subject of complaint for years. These grievances were so patent that the British Medical Council some years ago went so far as to place a ban on young medical men accepting commissions. Their action was so effective that the consequent shortage in the commissioned ranks necessitated the employment of civil practitioners in many home stations and the offering of special temporary commissions, with a tempting bounty at the expiration of the contract. The bar was lifted when the Council secured some concessions on behalf of the faculty, and promises of more, which were never fulfilled. The shortage is still so great that at frequent intervals invitations are issued for twenty or more young doctors at a time to accept temporary employment, with the prospect of permanency if they so desire.

London's Tramways.

The fate of the London tramway system is in the balance. The new London Transport Board, which came into being at the beginning of last month, intends to experiment with the trolley 'bus, and, if the experiment proves a success, it will not be long before the electric, conduit-worked cars disappear. There are altogether in the Metropolis 338 miles of tramway tracks. On many routes there has been such overlapping by cars and 'buses as to call for a comprehensive scheme of co-ordination which the new Board has set out to achieve. Mr. John Burns's prophecy that the L.C.C. system would run 'buses off the streets was falsified long ago; for the competition has resulted in municipal enterprise becoming a heavy charge on the taxpayers. The adoption of trolley 'buses will be an expensive affair; for, apart from the cost of installing that means of passenger transport, that of erasing the present lines, which the Board hardly would allow to remain on the roadways, will run into close on £3,000 a mile.

A Shorter Vacation.

With the conclusion of the Trinity law sittings this week there comes into operation the shorter vacation for which many members of the legal fraternity have long been agitating. For the next two months the Royal Courts of Justice will be deserted, except for the attentions of the cleaners. Michaelmas term will open on October 2nd, instead of October 12th, as has been the usual practice. This shortened period of two clear months' rest, however, does not quite meet the wishes of those who have been urging the curtailment of Long Vacation. Their ideal ranges from a month to six weeks—the majority favouring the latter—though a month — repellant, perhaps, to His Majesty's judges and to the more opulent members of the Bar—would be welcome to the less-favoured members of the profession, and it certainly could be justified by the present congestion of business in the courts.

Archers.

At the Ranelagh Club to-day some of the finest bowmen in Europe opened the first archery championship of the world ever held in England, and the third held anywhere at all. About nine nations are represented. Belgians have come over with four picked men from their 25,000 archers. The French team represents 200,000. The meeting will conclude on Friday. There is a great difference between this modern archery and that of the days of old. Bows are no longer cut from the woods by the archers themselves, and arrows cut and dressed in their spare time. The modern toxophilite has his bow fashioned by an expert; his arrows are perfectly rounded and decorated in fancy colours. The list of patrons of the meeting is headed by the King; and the Duke of Portland, President of the Royal Toxophilite Society, and the Duke of Buccleuch, Captain of the Royal Company of Archers, are giving this remarkable gathering their personal support.

Foreign Factories and the Trade Unions.

When the new factory erected at East Tilbury, Essex, by the Bata Shoe Company of Czechoslovakia, was opened yesterday, fully 1,000 men were waiting at the gates seeking work. Many of them were taken on at once, but it has not yet been announced how many employés the factory will absorb when it gets into working order. The Minister of Labour has issued permits to ten foreign instructors to come into the country to train British workmen in Bata methods of boot production. The permits are limited to six months. There has been some trouble in connection with factories which have lately been established here by foreigners, since trade unions concerned have taken exception to hours of labour and rates of pay. None of these newcomers will recognise the unions, and trouble is brewing.

Fraudulent Money Orders.

Despite previous advices that the public should not cash Post Office money orders for strangers, and the notice to this effect which is printed on all the orders, the Postmaster-General has found it necessary to issue a further warning on the subject. Recently money orders for small amounts have been purchased from various post offices, and afterwards have been altered to represent larger sums. Many tradesmen in different parts of the country have accepted these fraudulent money orders in payment for articles of small value, giving change for the amounts stated, and have been involved in loss, since the Post Office only pays the actual amounts for which the orders were issued.

Pier Fires.

Seaside local authorities have taken alarm at the sequence of pier fires which has occurred during the last few weeks. The fact that no reasonable cause for the outbreaks has been discovered has led to the suspicion that incendiarism has been at work, with the result that virtually all piers around the coasts have been provided with twenty-four hour watches, including police guards, and have had their fire appliances increased. Colour is lent to the suspicion of incendiarism by the fact that all the fires have taken place in northern resorts within a comparatively small area. On the other hand, since all holiday places are now swarming with visitors, the careless discarding of cigarette ends may explain the mischief. This reprehensible practice, so common among the thoughtless, has been the cause of innumerable accidents.

RECENT ECONOMIC PEACE MOVES.

MR. McGILLIGAN'S POINTED QUESTIONS.

SOUTH AFRICANS' LATE VISIT TO DUBLIN.

LIGHT ON AN EFFORT THAT FAILED.

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

HAVE there been renewed negotiations for a settlement of the economic war?

Where were these negotiations held, and what was the result, if any?

Clearly Mr. Patrick McGilligan was in possession of a certain amount of information when, during the debate in the Dail on Tuesday night, he charged the Government with calling in the guns in order to create a "sensation," to cover up another failure.

Persons listening to the debate were intrigued by Mr. McGilligan's insistence on the fact that negotiations had taken place within the last few weeks.

Moreover, he alleged that other negotiations had taken place before Christmas. He invited the Government to deny these allegations, and the complete silence on the Government front bench was strikingly eloquent.

Mr. McGilligan said that, perhaps, the President would prefer to call them "conversations." He did not mind if they were called "conversations," or "whisperings," or anything else; all he asked was—Would they be denied? And no denial was forthcoming.

I am in a position to add some further details, which tend to confirm Mr. McGilligan's statement, particularly in so far as the more recent efforts are concerned.

A RECENT VISIT TO DUBLIN.

Less than three weeks ago three members of the staff of the South African delegation at the World Economic Conference in London visited Dublin. One of them was Mr. C. te Water, the High Commissioner in London of the Union of South Africa.

That their visit was not unexpected was apparent from the fact that an informal dinner party had been arranged for them at the residence of a member of the Government.

It seems that nearly every member of the Executive Council was present, including Mr. Joseph Connolly, Minister for Lands and Fisheries and leader of the Free State delegation at the London Conference, who came over specially for the occasion.

My information is that the President of the Executive Council was also present.

The "negotiations," "conference," or whatever else it may be called, lasted from about nine o'clock in the evening until three o'clock the following morning. It ended in complete failure to arrive at any plan upon which serious negotiations could be based.

One thing appears to have distinctly emerged, and that is that owing to the previous handling of the subject it will now be much more difficult to get matters moving than it would have been six months ago. Mr. J. H. Thomas stated lately in the House of Commons that political or constitutional matters had now become vital, and would have to be dealt with before the economic issue.

This is understood to have relation to the factor that the removal of the oath is now an accomplished fact.

Then there is the matter of ariffs, upon which probably an understanding will have to be reached before the retention of the annuities is considered.

THE TRIBUNAL.

It is learned that the matter of a tribunal, judicial or otherwise, was discussed.

The British Government, as has been intimated already, is prepared to vary the tribunal envisaged in the Imperial Conference report of 1930. The matter of the chairmanship, however, is still a vital one, whatever the tribunal may be.

The name of Mr. Tielman Roose, leader of the South African Coalition Party, was mentioned for the chairmanship, in addition to those of other South African jurists, but without success.

The time chosen for the visit of the South African representatives was well chosen, inasmuch as so many strangers were present in Dublin to attend the British Medical Association meeting.

Mr. H. S. Havenga, Minister for Finance in the South African Union, arrived in Dublin last evening from London, and it is of some significance that he was met at the boat by Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly, Vice-President of the Executive Council, and Mr. Sean Lemass, Minister for Industry and Commerce.

COMEDY SCENE IN THE DAIL.

IRISH FUEL IN SUGAR FACTORIES.

AN AMENDMENT THAT LOOKED HARMLESS.

FROM OUR SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE.

YESTERDAY'S sitting of the Dail, though it lasted only three and a half hours, provided quite a lot of amusement for the onlooker. Its outstanding feature was the strange reluctance of the Government to accept an amendment, proposed by Mr. MacDermot, for the use of Irish fuel in the new sugar beet factories, and their efforts to justify this surprising departure from the policy of encouraging Irish industry.

Any amount of political capital might (and probably will) be drawn from this, but the fact was that they were gradually manœuvred into an impossible position which they did not realise until too late. The amendment looked harmless enough on the face of it, and Mr. MacEntee dismissed it in rather a perfunctory manner, remarking that it was quite unnecessary. Possibly, as was pointed out later on, the Government felt that any proposal of this kind should have come from their own benches rather than those of the Centre Party, but, whatever the reason, their uncompromising refusal led them quickly into trouble.

ATTEMPT TO SIDE-TRACK.

When Mr. MacDermot announced that he was unsatisfied with Fianna Fail's attitude, and that he intended to press his amendment, we had the spectacle of Ministers trying by every means in their power to side-track the whole business rather than give way on the point. Protesting that he was just as keen on Irish industry as the next man, Mr. MacEntee said that the reason for his refusal was that the factories would probably use a lot of Irish coal in any case. Mr. Lemass suggested that the amendment had only been proposed because Mr. MacDermot's constituency might benefit. Mr. MacEntee (suddenly struck with a bright idea) asked the Speaker if the amendment was in order at all, and, baulked on this point, said that it had been badly drafted, that it was a political demonstration, that the use of Irish coal was still in an experimental stage, that it gave powers to one Minister which should belong to another, and, finally, that Irish coal would impose an undue handicap on the new factories, and would increase the cost of sugar to the consumer. It will be gathered from the last remark that Mr. MacEntee was beginning to feel the strain a little.

WITH WET TOWELS.

Mr. Cosgrave, who spoke next, was in his best form, and treated the subject in a dryly humorous manner. If the Ministry had really been in earnest on the subject, he said, they would not have been content to dismiss the amendment as badly drafted. In their zeal to help Irish industry they would have sat up all night with wet towels round their heads, avoided all the social functions of the past few days, and hammered out some solution to the problem. However, he doubted if the Minister had read the amendment at all, and had certainly not called in the experts for advice, although they were present in such numbers that "one could form fours with them."

THE RED HERRING.

Mr. Lemass, who up to this point had been enjoying the joke as much as anyone, now tried to avenge his party by entrapping the Opposition in their turn, and attempted to draw Cumann na nGaedheal into an admission that they were in favour of having Irish fuel used in every industry, no matter what it was. The red herring, however, was not pursued, and gradually the good humour of the Government gave place to annoyance; it was being realised that they were now in an awkward situation. After one or two angry scenes, Mr. Lemass found himself differing from Mr. MacEntee on the subject of "undue handicaps." Irish coal, he said, had been tried at Carlow, and had been found to be much more suitable than any other kind. Mr. Belton, in the course of another passage of arms, asked the Minister for Finance to "stop biting the hand which fed him, and which brought him here"—referring, of course, to his own entry into the Dail in 1927, which brought in the Fianna Fail Party shortly after.

Labour and the Centre Party both voted with Cumann na nGaedheal against the Government, but the amendment was defeated by 53 votes to 35. Before the next subject was taken, Mr. MacEntee, evidently feeling that some "come-back" was indicated, rose and called the Speaker's attention to the scandalous way in which the privileges of the House had been abused during the previous debate, and the gross impropriety with which civil servants had been treated. Mr. Cosgrave had said that one could form fours with the number of experts who were present.

NAZI ACTIVITY IN COLONIES.

SOUTH AFRICA TAKES STEPS.

UNIFORM WEARING AND JEW BOYCOTTING.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WINDHOEK, Wednesday.

AS a protest against the attitude of the Union members of the Legislature of South-West Africa with reference to the Nazi movement, German members to-day presented a memorandum to the Chairman of the Assembly and then walked out.

The House continued business with only the ten Union members present.

The German members later returned in order to vote against an anti-Nazi motion, which was finally passed by nine votes to seven.

The motion read: "The House is of opinion that legislation should be introduced as soon as possible prohibiting the continuance of Nazi or similar propaganda which might disturb relations between the various sections of the European population, and compelling existing Nazi and similar movements to dissolve."

After the vote the Germans again left the House, which continued its business in their absence.

DRAFT ORDINANCE.

The withdrawal of the German members follows a heated controversy yesterday resulting from a private motion asking the administration to prohibit Nazi propaganda, and also the introduction of an official draft ordinance banning uniforms worn without permission and prohibiting the boycotting of any particular race or community in business.

The German members take the view that these proposals are an unwarranted interference with private affairs, but the other members decline to withdraw the ordinance, as to do so would, they maintain, virtually recognise the right of the German Government to intervene in the domestic affairs of South-West Africa.

The German Government has already warned Germans here that they must prevent the disturbance of relations between sections of the community.

South-West Africa was formerly a German colony, and is now administered by the Union of South Africa under a League of Nations mandate.

IN TANGANYIKA.

It is learned that increasing numbers of distinguished Germans are visiting Tanganyika (another former German colony), all of whom declare that no significance attaches to such visits, telegraphs Reuter's Dar-es-Salaam Correspondent. The situation there is not disturbing, because there are very few Jews in that vast territory.

None the less, Nazi cells have been formed there, and it is understood that steps are being taken to extend the movement.

"NAZIS" CAUSE STORM IN BUENOS AIRES.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BUENOS AIRES, Wednesday.

Fascists and Communists came to blows in the docks here to-day, when a party of fourteen German tourists who had been described as Nazis arrived in the Hamburg liner Monte Olivia.

Two people were wounded, and police made four arrests before dispersing the combatants.

Elsewhere in the city there were demonstrations by Communists, who fired revolvers at the police. Two bombs were exploded in the main street this morning.

These events followed vigorous Communist protests against the visitors being allowed to land in Argentine territory. They were disembarked under police guard, however.

AMERICANS URGED TO "BUY NOW."

MOVE TO BOOST PRICES.

"SUBSIDIES TO INDUSTRY" PLAN.

TO MEET INCREASED PAY ROLL BURDEN.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.

A NATIONAL "buy now" campaign in an effort to increase consumption, which is vital to the success of President Roosevelt's "back to prosperity" campaign, is being planned by General Hugh Johnson, head of the National Recovery Administration.

It will be carried on side by side with the higher wage and shorter hours movement, to increase the purchasing power of the nation and re-employ the workless.

General Johnson believes that the real test of the "blanket code" policy will come in the next three weeks. It is officially estimated that about one-sixth of American industry, employing about 6,000,000 men, has voluntarily accepted either the "blanket code" or specific wage and hour codes approved by the Administration. About 700,000 employers are represented by these industries, leaving about 4,300,000 still to come into line.

MORE CREDIT.

The broadcast announcement by Mr. Jesse H. Jones, Chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, that the corporation is going to help the banks to extend credit to industry is regarded as of the greatest significance.

Some quarters believe that it may be the beginning of Government subsidies to industry to enable it to sustain the higher pay-rolls under the "blanket code" until such time as increased sales at higher prices can be made to carry the cost.

Mr. Jones said that he spoke with the approval of the President and the United States Treasury. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, he said, was ready to inflate the working capital of banks lending to industry by purchasing Preferred stock in sound institutions.

He read a letter from Mr. Roosevelt saying:—"Credit must be made available to all classes of our citizens if business is to be re-established on a permanent workable basis."

The National Recovery Administration now finds itself embroiled in the question of price-fixing. Mr. Walter Lippman, the economic expert, declares that it is of fundamental importance that the price of steel should not be overlooked in the proposed steel code, while the oil interests have told General Johnson that price control for them is essential.

ONLY A WEEK MORE.

BALBO'S DECISION ON VALENTIA.

LATE SEASON WILL THEN FORCE FRESH ROUTE.

ITALIAN officials at Valentia Island, in an official statement issued last night, declared that General Balbo and his air fleet have now fixed their departure from Newfoundland for to-morrow morning, and will arrive in Ireland about 10 p.m.

These arrangements presume that the cyclone reported over the Atlantic and spreading south of Greenland, will move as anticipated.

Should, however, further adverse weather delay the start until August 10th, General Balbo will take the southern route over the Azores, owing to shortening evenings, which would make advisable a mid-Atlantic halt.

The Italian air fleet, says Reuter, is expected to stop at the Etang de Berre, near Marseilles, on its return flight. The lagoon, which is a naval seaplane base, has been placed by the French Minister of Marine at the disposal of the Minister of Air for the reception of the Italians.

A wireless message reporting thick fog off the coast of Ireland prevented the Italians from hopping off yesterday morning on their return flight to Europe, says a Reuter message from Newfoundland. General Balbo had intended to start at 8 a.m. (B.S.T.) and the crews were already in the motor boats on the way to the 'planes when the adverse weather report was received.

AIRMAN'S DELAYED FLIGHT.

LIEUTENANT ULM IN MANCHESTER.

Flight-Lieutenant Charles Ulm, the Australian airman, whose 'plane Faith in Australia was badly damaged when it sank in the sand while he was preparing to take off for his flight across the Atlantic at Portmarnock strand, County Dublin, last Thursday, passed through Liverpool yesterday on his way to Manchester, where he has gone to watch the progress of the repairs to the machine at the Avro Works.

"I cannot say definitely how long the repairs are going to take," said Lieutenant Ulm in an interview. "I am hoping that the work will be completed in about two weeks' time. When that is done I shall proceed to Ireland and make another start from Portmarnock. I shall be accompanied again by the same three companions, including Mr. L. Gallen, my co-pilot. We are hoping for better luck this time."

The machine, with its engines, had been brought to Liverpool, and there the Customs authorities detained the engines. Later in the day they were cleared, and will be collected and taken to Manchester.

"It was a case of the aeroplane being a British machine with American engines," said a member of the Avro Works to a reporter yesterday. "They queried the engines, but we have cleared them now. It was only a matter of supplying a statement to the Customs authorities that the aeroplane would be flown away again. I expect that Mr. Ulm will fly his machine from here back to Ireland."

GENERAL O'DUFFY DISARMED.

SEIZURE OF HIS REVOLVERS.

HIS PROTEST AND DEFENCE.

NATIONAL GUARD'S POSITION.

DETECTIVES in Dublin yesterday seized two revolvers from General O'Duffy (Director-General of the National Guard). One of these guns, says General O'Duffy, was a service revolver, and the other was the revolver which Michael Collins had in his hands when he was shot in an ambush in County Cork. It was given to General O'Duffy as a token of remembrance of his first Commander-in-Chief.

General O'Duffy, in an interview last night, said:—"I have been removed from my position of Commissioner of Police without any cause. I believe that the Minister for Justice will refuse to give me any pension, either for Army or Guard service.

"Now my life is being trifled with. This is victimisation of the most callous type ever imposed by any Government on a public servant."

General O'Duffy continued:—"I have read the Dail debate in the papers to-day. There is little to reply to. Nothing new has been said. The dictatorship scare has been repeated. I again say with all the emphasis I can that I am personally opposed to dictatorship in any form. I believe the Irish people would not have it. I will ask the Executive of the National Guard at its first meeting to insert a new clause in our constitution, showing that our policy is opposed to dictatorship, and pledging our members to oppose any such line of action with all the resources at our command. I trust this will lay the dictatorship bogey once and for all.

"We are being subjected to deliberate misrepresentation by those from whom the country expects something else.

"The President, speaking of me, is reported to have said: 'When that gentleman was in office the Constitution was good enough for him. The Government is going to see that if there is any change of democratic rule it will be by the will of the people.' I agree with the President absolutely. When I was in office I obeyed the Constitution to the letter. I obey it still, and I have said only a day or two ago that the National Guard will move slowly, watching its steps as it advances, and when the country desires a change the people will have an opportunity to pronounce on our policy.

"It is hardly fair to attribute false motives to a person with my present responsibility in the highest tribunal in the land. Anyhow, those who know me will not believe it.

NON-POLITICAL.

"The National Guard has been again referred to as an adjunct to a political party. It should be now clear to all who wish to see, that we are determined to keep the middle of the road, independent of all parties. It was under these conditions that I accepted leadership. Those who allege that we are linked up with any political party or group of parties give us credit for very little intelligence. Even if all the parties combine against us, we will go ahead, a civil, unarmed body, with clearly defined policy to put before the people.

"It is not part of our policy to usurp the duties of the police. I know the Garda Siochana better than any man in Ireland, and I know the difficulties with which they have to contend in their little outposts of three or four men from twelve to twenty miles apart. I know they would be very glad to see ten or twenty self-respecting young men in every parish, not attached to any faction, who will stand for right against might—who will be chivalrous enough to tackle the gun-bully unarmed—who, by their discipline and example, will educate the people in the duties of citizenship.

"I was in Kilkenny last Sunday, where I met representatives of the National Guard from the various parishes in the county. I found that in one parish alone there were upwards of 150 Communists. If this statement is challenged I can produce names. I consider the police should hear of this sort of thing, and that it should not be regarded as impertinence for the National Guard to offer their co-operation to people living in isolated districts, far from the Gardai station.

"The blue shirt worn by the National Guard is referred to as a military uniform. That is absurd. I am wearing a blue shirt now, and if I take off my coat, surely I am not in military uniform.

SUGGESTED TEST CASE.

"I think this question should be tested in the Courts of Justice. If any member of the National Guard does anything illegal he should be charged in the courts. Thousands of National Guards are wearing blue shirts over the country, and I would welcome a test case if a charge lies under any statute.

"The President is also reported to have said that, 'if any sensation was created, it was General O'Duffy who sought to create it.' In what way have I tried to create a sensation, except in the fact that I have accepted leadership of an organisation which in a few short days has secured an enormous measure of support from the farming and business communities, as well as from the youth. These supporters have already studied our policy, and have quickly come to the conclusion that the new movement is the only hope for the country. We have their trust. It is obvious to every thinking person that the Government fears the National Guard from the political viewpoint, and it is equally obvious that this is the real cause of the S.O.S. and alarm.

"I wish it to be known that members of the Gardai entered my house last evening and seized my two revolvers. This is the first time that such a thing has happened. One of these was a Service revolver, the other was the revolver which Michael Collins had in his hands when he was murdered in an ambush in County Cork, and which was given to me by his sister as a token of remembrance of my first Commander-in-Chief. I had, of course, permits for both, and I am now rendered defenceless. This is the gratitude shown by the Government, acting on behalf of the Irish people, for my services to my country for the past seventeen years. I have been removed from my position of Commissioner of Police without any cause. I believe the Minister for Justice will

MAKING TRIBES UNCOMFORTABLE.

OBJECT OF BRITISH BOMBING RAIDS.

'PLANES SNIPED FROM HILLSIDES.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SIMLA, Wednesday.

THE results of the bombing of the frontier village of Kotkai yesterday morning and evening are not yet known. The Royal Air Force machines concerned were sniped at by Bajauri tribesmen, who are hiding in caves and boulders on the surrounding hillside.

The objectives for to-day were to be decided on by the Northern Army commander, in consultation with the Governor of the North-West Frontier Province and the Chief Political Officer.

It is pointed out that the attitude of the authorities here is to inflict the minimum of hardship and to avoid all unnecessary suffering by the tribesmen. Their object is rather to harass them and render their life most uncomfortable until they tire of offering resistance.

The difference between bombing Khar and, say, London, it is explained, is that Khar is a tiny hamlet easily and quickly evacuated after warning is given. The inhabitants can soon remove their few belongings, and the houses are speedily rebuilt.

Moreover, the damage to the community's economic life is relatively small owing to its primitive conditions.

Leading Air Force authorities here appear to be sceptical that the bombing operations will result in their handing over of the three wanted agitators, but hope is expressed that these men will flee across the border, making the question of their capture an internal matter for Afghanistan, instead of one occasioning international complications.

TROOPS ENCAMP.

The Peshawar Brigade, which is on its way to support the friendly Halimzai tribe against the threatened attack of the Upper Mohmands, reached Galanai yesterday without incident. It is now encamped, and is not likely to move any further until a track to suit wheeled transport has been completed as far as Galanai, which is six and a half miles beyond Dand. The track as far as Dand has now been completed.

Aircraft engaged in reconnoitring have reported that they have not observed any sign of hostile troops. They have been forbidden, however, to fly beyond the presumptive border.

IRISHMAN KILLED BY MOTOR LORRY.

HERTS POLICE SEARCH FOR RELATIVES.

The Herts police issued a request last night for any information which may help to trace the relatives of a man who was run down by a motor lorry in Watling street, near Redbourne, on July 30, and died from his injuries in St. Alban's Hospital. His description is:—"Aged 30, 5ft. 10ins. in height, clean shaven, dark hair; dressed in a blue serge jacket and trousers with the maker's name on a tab as N. Berg White; tennis shirt, grey felt hat, black patent shoes, fancy socks, a small fancy handkerchief in his breast pocket, leather belt."

Papers in his possession gave the name of Cornelius Doherty, and he is believed to have been an Irishman, a native of Belfast or Ballymore. Any information should be communicated to the Chief Constable at Hatfield.

MOTHERS OF WAR VICTIMS TO VISIT FRANCE.

The United States Lines steamer, President Roosevelt, arrived at Cork Harbour yesterday and landed forty-six passengers and 372 sacks of American mails before proceeding to Plymouth, Havre and Hamburg. There were on board the last group of "Gold Star" mothers, numbering two hundred, who are visiting the battlefields of France as guests of the American Government. On Sunday last a Service was held aboard ship in memory of those Americans who fell during the Great War, and the one minute's silence was observed.

A wreath was also dropped overboard, and the mothers were each presented by the ship's commander, Captain John Jensen, with a medal from the United States Lines.

The passengers aboard included the Hon. Harry Hines Woodring, Assistant Secretary of War, and his bride, formerly Miss Helen Coolidge, daughter of Senator Coolidge.

Stowed away in the vessel's strong room were 117 kegs of gold, valued at five and a half million dollars, and consigned to France.

RUSSIAN TEACHING METHODS.

CONGRESS ON CATHOLIC SECONDARY EDUCATION.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

THE HAGUE, Wednesday.

The proceedings of the International Congress on Catholic Secondary Education were continued here to-day.

On the initiative of the President of the Conference, Professor Corcoran, a telegram of congratulations was sent to the Queen Mother of Holland on the occasion of her seventy-fifth birthday.

Professor Devaud, of Freiburg University, Switzerland, delivered an address on education in Russia from 1917 until the present year. He outlined the remarkable development in public education under the Bolshevik régime, and he explained that the Russian school was subjugated to the realisation of the economic schemes. The school conformed itself more to creating a mentality than to imparting knowledge. He also addressed the delegates on children's activity in schools and individual education.

WITHDRAWAL OF JAPANESE TROOPS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SHANGHAI, Wednesday.

Chinese officials at Peking have been informed that the withdrawal of the Japanese troops stationed recently along the Teking-Mukden Railway will be completed by August 7th.

It is expected that through railway traffic between Shanhaikwan and Peking will be resumed immediately the withdrawal is completed.

FIRE AT LEINSTER HOUSE.

DURING SUPPER TO MR. DE VALERA.

A fire broke out in Leinster House at 12.45 o'clock this morning, when President de Valera was being presented with a portrait of himself painted by Mr. Sean O'Sullivan. The portrait, which was exhibited at the Royal Hibernian Academy, had been purchased by a number of Mr. de Valera's supporters, and its presentation to him was marked by an informal supper in the restaurant. While this function was in progress persons present noticed that smoke had begun to pour in through the two ventilators. Waitresses became hysterical. Journalists in the adjoining Press restaurant smelt the fire and gave the alarm. At that time the outbreak looked like being very serious. The entire Tara street section of the Brigade arrived.

The fire originated near a boiler in the kitchen, under the restaurant. It appears that a pile of shavings—at what had been regarded as a safe distance from the boiler—had been set alight by the heat from the boiler. The firemen, who had to work in darkness, had the greatest difficulty in extinguishing the flames.

Meanwhile Mr. de Valera, who up to this time had been enjoying the songs which had followed the presentation, noticing that the smoke was becoming very dense in the restaurant, quietly asked the guests to withdraw, and they moved into the corridors and lobbies of Leinster House.

Miss Pearse, T.D., stated that she had noticed the excitement among the waitresses, but did not realise that there was a fire until two firemen burst into the restaurant.

That the gathering broke up suddenly was evident from the expression of regret on the faces of disappointed guests. Some moments later two ushers, realising the danger, entered the restaurant and removed the portrait. The Fire Brigade remained on duty for nearly half an hour.

Colonel Brennan, Superintendent of Staff, Captain Byrne and Mr. Doran, a member of the Oireachtas staff, are to be congratulated on their promptitude in dealing with the outbreak. The ushers also rendered excellent assistance in laying down a line of hose before the Fire Brigade arrived.

B.M.A. DELEGATES.

TOUR OF WEST OF IRELAND.

Several delegates to last week's meeting in Dublin of the British Medical Association are on a tour of the West of Ireland. During their visit to Clifden, Connemara, they stayed at the Railway Hotel, where all arrangements had been made for their entertainment.

CATTLE SEIZURE AND A RESCUE.

A number of cattle removed by Civic Guards and bailiffs from the lands of a farmer at Borrisheg, Templemore, because of non-payment of rates and annuities, were rescued from the bailiffs and restored to the farmer. It is reported that the rescue party comprised a large number of other farmers in the district.

RATE COLLECTOR WITHOUT IRISH.

MINISTER AND AN APPOINTMENT.

In reply to Mr. Broderick (C. na nG., Galway), who asked the Minister for Local Government and Public Health in the Dail yesterday if he was aware that a rate collector had been appointed by the Galway County Council who had not a knowledge of Irish, although the advertisement inviting applications for the position stated that a competent knowledge of Irish was required, and that all the applicants, with the exception of the man appointed, had a knowledge of Irish, and what steps the Minister proposed to take, the MINISTER said that he had informed the County Council that he did not propose to sanction the appointment.

LAND TAXATION GRANTS.

The MINISTER FOR FINANCE asked Mr. Belton (C. na nG., Dublin County), as it would take some time to compile the information sought, to repeat his question asking the amounts deducted from local taxation grants for each County Council area in respect of deficiencies in the Land Purchase Fund and the Land Bond Fund which were outstanding on the 31st March, 1930, and the further amounts of any deficiencies that accrued due during the years ended on 31st March, 1931, and 31st March, 1932, and which were outstanding now; and, further, whether any of the amounts outstanding on the 31st March, 1930, were since collected, and, if so, the amount.

VETERINARY DISPENSARIES.

Mr. O'GRADY, Parliamentary Secretary to the Department of Lands and Fisheries, replying for the Minister for Agriculture, informed Mr. Sean Broderick (Cumann na nGaedheal, Galway) that there was at present no veterinary dispensary in Connemara, but that the Department had under consideration a scheme for the extension of the veterinary dispensary system in congested districts.

Mr. O'GRADY informed Mr. Dockrell (Cumann na nGaedheal, Dublin County) that the value of the stocks and materials and finished goods at the fifty-two producing centres in the Gaeltacht and at the marketing depot or with the finishers on March 31 last was approximately £25,000, and the value of machinery £5,700.

ANNUITY ARREARS.

Asked by Mr. P. Belton (Cumann na nGaedheal, Dublin Co.) to state the amount of Land Annuity arrears that accrued during the year ended on March 31 last, Mr. O'GRADY, Parliamentary Secretary, said that the accounts of the Land Commission were not kept in such a way as would enable the particulars asked for to be given. The accounts relating to the collection of land purchase annuities were made up at the 31st January and 31st July in each year, and it was, therefore, not possible from those accounts to give the particulars asked for. At the 31st July, 1932, a sum of £807,750 was in arrear in respect of the annuities which accrued due for the first half of 1932, and a sum of £1,779,247 was in arrear at 31st January, 1933, in respect of the annuities for the second half of 1932.

MOLLISONS AT "SWIMMING PARTY."

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ATLANTIC CITY, Wednesday.

Despite the intense heat, Mr. and Mrs. Mollison were greeted with wild enthusiasm by a large crowd on their arrival at the airport here. They have come to be the guests of Amelia Earhart (Mrs. G. Putnam), the trans-Atlantic flier, at a lunch and "swimming party."

Mr. Mollison, who last night had to leave the banquet given by the Federation of Scottish Societies owing to a temperature of 102, stated that he was feeling much better when he left New York to-day. A physician at the hotel said that Mr. Mollison's indisposition was due to an anti-tetanus serum injected a week ago, the effects of which usually last only for twenty-four hours.

NEW FREE STATE ENVOY IN BERLIN.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Wednesday.

The new Minister of the Irish Free State, Mr. Charles Bewley, hitherto Minister to the Holy See, arrived here to-day.

The new British Ambassador to Germany, Sir Eric Phipps, also arrived this afternoon.

FROM "THE TIMES."

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

THE REPORT ON HOUSING.

The Times observes in a leading article to-day:—The report of the Departmental Committee on Housing follows very closely the views expressed by the Minister of Health from time to time on the two subjects—namely, reconditioning and new building—which the Committee were appointed to examine. The report confirms the facts, that reconditioning can play a considerable part in dealing with the semi-slum or embryo slum, that this process should not be regarded as a substitute for slum clearance, and that local authorities already possess, but only too rarely exercise, the statutory powers necessary to adopt it. These are all points which are very widely admitted, and the interest of the report lies in the methods suggested for securing the more extensive practice of reconditioning by the owners of repairable property themselves, by local authorities and by public utility societies.

It is a little surprising, adds The Times, that, with the exception of the two Independent Liberal members, the Committee should have so flatly rejected the proposals put forward by witnesses for the creation of a National Housing Corporation or Board. In respect of reconditioning, as has been explained, the Committee adopt the policy of working through public utility societies, and of granting Government assistance in cash and credit, extending even to the possibility of issuing a Government housing loan. But in respect of new building, these principles are ruled out, at least for a long time to come, and upon arguments, some of which are clearly held to possess a more than temporary validity.

The Committee's contention that the bulk purchase of materials might lead to higher, instead of lower, prices is open to question. In certain passages they even seem to assume that the present rate of building is satisfactory, but the very object of the Committee was to see how the rate of building could be increased, and the question to be answered was whether, in the case of an increased demand, bulk purchase was more likely to keep prices down than the present unorganised purchases by thousands of competitive builders.

These features of the report must tend to throw doubts upon the Committee's further contentions that the proposed organisation would be unwieldly, and the expert staff difficult to obtain.

JACK DOYLE AND THE BOXING BOARD.

PROCEEDINGS OPENED IN LONDON.

Proceedings have begun in the King's Bench Division, London, on behalf of Jack Doyle against the White City Stadium, Ltd., and the Stewards of the British Boxing Board of Control in connection with the young Irishman's recent fight with Petersen.

Doyle is claiming payment of his purse money of £3,000 and a declaration that the Stewards are trustees of this sum for him. He is also claiming an injunction to restrain them from dealing with the money in any way other than by paying it over to him or in the court.

BRAY WOMAN'S WILL.

Miss Eleanor Hopkins, of 3 Martello terrace, Bray, Co. Wicklow, who died on 28th May last, left personal estate in England and the Irish Free State valued at £5,914. She left £200 to Earl Haig's Fund for Disabled Soldiers (Irish Auxiliary); £150 to the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals; £150 to Mrs. Smyly's Homes for Children; £100 to the Rector and churchwardens of Christ Church, Bray, for the Poor; £50 to the Children's Sunshine Home, Stillorgan; and £50 to the Nursery Rescue and Protestant Girls' Aid Society.

refuse to give me any pension either for Army or Guard service. Now my life is being trifled with.

"I consider this is victimisation of the most callous type ever imposed by any Government on a public servant. My only consolation is that I know that the Irish people, who are the masters of the Government, will deal with it at the proper time, in the way it deserves.

YESTERDAY'S POLICE ACTIVITY.

Mr. Ernest Blythe received no visit from the police authorities yesterday. He still retains his gun.

Mr. O. G. Esmonde, T.D., was visited yesterday at his residence by a man who said that he was a policeman, and asked for his revolver. Mr. Esmonde at the time had no revolver, and consequently could not give it up. Mr. Esmonde stated that he had no proof that the man who called upon him was a properly accredited member of the authorised police force.

Other persons in Dublin who hold revolvers under firearms certificates which expired on Monday last were visited yesterday by detectives, who asked for their weapons. So far as can be ascertained, the men who refused to surrender their arms in the first instance have retained them on the ground that they are necessary to defend life and property.

Many of those who gave up their arms during the week-end have received forms of application for renewal of their permits. These, in the majority of cases, have been filled and returned to the police authorities.

At the meeting of the Dublin Board of Fishery Conservators yesterday the head water bailiff (Mr. M'Namara) reported that his revolver was taken up by the Civic Guards on Monday last. In the course of his report, however, it was stated that he was still entitled to carry a shotgun.

The Civic Guards yesterday collected arms in Waterford city and county, and the portion of Kilkenny adjoining Waterford county, in Bantry, Carrick-on-Shannon and Carrickmacross.

MAIL BAG ROBBERY.

COUP IN HEART OF LONDON.

A MAIL bag robbery was carried out by three men in the heart of London at eight o'clock yesterday morning. Scarcely anyone was about at the time, and the thieves had obviously carefully studied the procedure of the postman at this particular hour, and had laid their plans well.

A Post Office van is left in Lombard street, and the postman carries his bags of mail along Birchin lane, making deliveries at the offices as he goes along.

Yesterday morning, as he was proceeding down the lane, three men in a Ford van appeared—in the words of an eye-witness, "from nowhere." Two men jumped from the van, and, knocking the postman down, snatched from him a bag of registered mails which he was delivering to Williams Deacon's Bank. They then re-entered the van and quickly drove away.

A bank messenger who was standing at the corner of Lombard street at the time, told a reporter that the robbery was carried out with such rapidity that he did not realise what had happened until the van containing the three men had dashed past him.

"They were in such a hurry," he said, "that the van was driven erratically, and mounted the pavement in Birchin lane. It came into Lombard street at a high pace. They disappeared before I knew what had happened, the bank messenger said. When I looked round I saw a postman getting up from the pavement. His hat was some fifty yards down the lane. When I went to him he told me what had happened."

The City police are endeavouring to obtain detailed descriptions of the three men concerned. It is not yet known exactly what mail bag was stolen or what was the value of the contents.

An official of Williams Deacon's Bank said to a reporter: "All we know is that a mail bag containing registered packets consigned to us was stolen from postmen before they got to our building."

An official of the Post Office told a reporter: "A postman, Mr. Cyril Mitchell, was carrying a bag of registered postal packets, 30 in number, from the corner of Lombard street along Birchin lane to Williams Deacon's Bank, when he was attacked by three men. They tripped him up and threw him to the ground, got the bag away from him, and drove away in a car. The value of the registered postal packets is not known at present, but from the information we have they are not considered to have any intrinsic value. There were probably some cheques among them. Mitchell was not badly hurt, and joined in the chase after he had been attacked. He was able to resume duty."

A female Post Office official stated later: "We have now checked up on the stolen packets, and find that they contained nothing but bankers' drafts and bankers' documents, which are not negotiable, and, therefore, valueless to the thieves."

INSPECTION OF 21,000 SCOUTS.

OPENING CEREMONY OF WORLD JAMBOREE.

Admiral Horthy, the Regent of Hungary, inaugurated the fourth World Jamboree at Goedoelloe, Hungary, in the presence of General Goemboes, the Prime Minister, and a large number of spectators.

Twenty-one thousand scouts, over 2,000 of them from Great Britain and Ireland, lined up on a front half a mile long, and dipped the flags of thirty-seven nations as the Regent, mounted on the traditional white horse, rode by and inspected them. Spectators and scouts stood to attention as the band played the Hungarian National Anthem for a quarter of an hour while the inspection lasted.

Lord Baden-Powell, in his address to the scouts, referred to the legend that his presence implies rain. "For once I have not brought rain," he said.

The weather was at first cloudy, but turned sunny in the afternoon.

The march-past was most impressive. Admiral Horthy, who also addressed the scouts, and Lord Baden-Powell—both of them advanced in years—stood for nearly two hours at attention taking the salutes.

The British scouts came in for a particularly warm greeting, the crowd shouting enthusiastically "England, England." The Britons were headed by an impressive scene, entitled "The British Empire," symbolising the advancement of the Empire.

The ceremony ended impressively with the scouts rushing wildly towards Lord Baden-Powell from all corners of the arena with their flags waving madly in the breeze, forming a scene reminiscent of the dash of North African tribesmen.

At the conclusion Polish scouts released carrier pigeons to announce the opening to their homes.

The international jamboree camp is situated in 700 acres of park land belonging to the royal castle, which is 18 miles from Budapest.

THE HOUSING PROBLEM.

VIEWS OF MOYNE COMMITTEE.

PROPOSED UTILITY COUNCIL.

THE Departmental Committee appointed by the British Government last March to investigate certain aspects of the housing problem has issued its report.

One of the Committee's recommendations is the appointment of a strong central Public Utility Council by the Minister of Health. It is recommended that the Council should consist of not more than five, including the Chairman. It should be paid on a part-time basis, and should include at least one member with special financial qualifications. The staff should be appointed by the Minister. Close co-operation with the Garden Cities and Town-Planning Association would be necessary, and co-operation would be encouraged between local housing authorities, public utility societies, and private persons interested in voluntary housing action.

"Local authorities should be given compulsory powers, and encouraged to acquire for reconditioning working-class houses which are not in all respects fit for human habitation, but can be made fit, and to which a probable life of at least twenty years can be given.

"Where an approved public utility society exists, or can readily be formed, the houses should normally be acquired on behalf of the society, who will repair, improve and manage them.

"In the absence of such a society the local authorities should be empowered to lease the houses to house-management commissioners, who would be appointed by and ultimately responsible to, the local authority, but should be given full discretion and independence in regard to the details of administration.

"Management should be based on the Octavia Hill system, and wherever practicable women housing-estate managers should be employed.

"In suitable cases the local authority, or the approved public utility society, should be authorised to demolish the acquired houses with a view to obtaining a re-housing site, or to acquire them with this original intention."

Approved public utility societies should work in close co-operation with the local authorities.

COMPENSATION.

With regard to the basis of compensation payable to the expropriated owners or lessees, it is suggested that it should be the "refund" basis—i.e., the price to be paid by the acquiring authority should be: the purchase price paid by the owner; or if the owner inherited the premises its principal value accepted for death duties when they passed to him, or if the owner acquires the houses by deed of gift, the value adopted for stamp duty purposes.

Provision is also made for the cases of leasehold interests.

It is suggested for consideration that the new basis of compensation should be made applicable to any working-class houses which are not in all respects fit for human habitation, and are to be acquired by any public authority. This suggestion does not extend to demolishable houses, for which the site value basis of compensation is prescribed by the Housing Acts.

Safeguards for owners and lessees are recommended.

The Minister should exclude any property which is too bad for anything, except demolition, or the price of which is excessive.

In urban areas re-housing accommodation should be provided to abate overcrowding in the acquired houses, and where re-housing is to be provided by an approved public utility society, the site should be acquired on their behalf by the local authorities. In the case of refusal or undue delay on the part of the local authority, compulsory powers should be made exerciseable by the society.

THE SUBSIDY.

An Exchequer grant should be available in urban areas.

The principal condition on which subsidy should be payable should be that the rents to be charged should not exceed, on the average, 2s. 9d. (exclusive of rates) per habitable room in tenements of more than three storeys on expensive sites and 1s. 6d. (exclusive of rates) for a normal three-bedroomed house.

As to finance—"The functions of the central financing authority should be discharged by the Minister of Health, at least until the scope of the operations can be measured.

With regard to rural housing, greater use is recommended of the facilities provided by the Housing Acts. Certain amendments to these Acts are also suggested, particularly dealing with the permitted increase of rent. Local authorities should be empowered to close, for all purposes of human habitation, unfit parts of houses, whether let separately or not.

As to the types of dwelling, "private enterprise and local authorities, in providing new houses at large, should be encouraged to provide in future a larger proportion of small dwellings for the small family groups, who, according to the latest census figures, constitute nearly fifty per cent. of all families in many of the large towns."

MARKETING OF DEAD POULTRY.

TAKING ADVANTAGE OF HOME DEMAND.

From an examination of the situation existing in the home market for dead poultry during the current year, the Free State Department of Agriculture observe that, particularly during the spring months of this year, poultry producers in Saorstát Eireann failed to take advantage of the favourable conditions created by the imposition of the tariffs on dead poultry imported into this country. The practical exclusion of foreign birds as a result of the imposition of the tariff afforded home producers an excellent opportunity of catering for the home market at remunerative prices, especially during the spring months, when formerly large supplies of continental poultry appeared on the market.

As a result largely of the tariff on imports, fattened poultry were in considerable demand on the home market during last spring and early summer, and the Department have been informed that much larger supplies of home fattened chickens than those available could have been absorbed at prices much in excess of those usually prevailing.

In view of the fact that an equal demand is likely to arise for fattened poultry next spring, it would appear to be a profitable undertaking for poultry-keepers in this country to make provision therefor by making fattened chickens available from December onwards. It is necessary in order to achieve this that hatching operations should commence at once, and poultry-keepers are strongly recommended to make preparations for such hatching.

The selection of breeds is an important factor in producing birds of suitable quality and size. For hatching purposes this season preference should be given to the general purpose breeds, such as Wyandottes, Rhode Island Red, Plymouth Rock, etc., or to such table breeds as Sussex and Faverolle or possibly to crosses between some of these breeds.

Detailed information as regards the most suitable breeds and subsequent fattening in preparation for market can be obtained from the instructors in poultry-keeping in each county, with whom poultry-keepers are recommended to communicate.

WORK OF FREE STATE SCHOOLS.

CORK'S DILIGENT CHILDREN.

TRIBUTE TO TEACHERS.

CORK children are the most diligent school attenders in the Free State. Longford children are the worst. The percentage of attendance in the case of Cork is 87.2. In the case of Longford it is 79.7.

These facts are revealed in the report of the Free State Department of Education which has just been issued. The report is based on the returns of the year 1931-32.

During the financial year grants amounting to £60,009 were made for the building, enlargement and reconstruction of schools. Of this sum £39,115 was for the erection of 28 new schools to accommodate 2,712 children; £1,964 was in respect of supplementary grants made in the case of 16 new schools erected during previous years or in process of erection. From 1922 up to 1933 393 new schools were completed, and extensive schemes of reconstruction carried through at a cost of about £750,000. Much still remained to be done.

TEACHERS PRAISED.

The majority of the teachers, says the report, discharge their duties in a careful and satisfactory manner. They are punctual and regular in attendance, they are anxious for the welfare of their pupils, they aim at setting them a good example, they teach them to the best of their ability, and they correct with firmness and sympathy.

Generally speaking, the great majority of the teachers are satisfactorily equipped—apart from Irish—to give a useful elementary education. A large proportion of them, including many who have passed the age when the acquirement of a new language was likely to be successfully accomplished, made great sacrifices to equip themselves in Irish. There had been, however, a certain number of those well within the age when reasonable fluency in Irish might be attained, who have failed to respond.

The distribution of the qualified and unqualified teachers was, unfortunately, very uneven. While in some districts in the West of Ireland the percentage of teachers uncertificated in Irish was only ten or fifteen, in County Cavan nearly 50 per cent. of the teachers had no qualifications in the language. In Dublin City, too, the proportion of uncertificated teachers was high. With every year that passed the number of teachers who were well qualified in Irish tended to increase.

USE OF IRISH.

Regarding the possibility of extending the use of Irish as a medium of instruction and the difficulties to be overcome, an attempt was made by the Department to review the position in the secondary schools during the current year. In addition to calling for reports on the matter from the inspectors, an inquiry was addressed to the manager of each school. From the answers received it would appear that there is a considerable body of teachers competent to teach subjects through Irish. The difficulties mentioned vary, naturally, according to the type, location, etc., of the school, but the obstacles most frequently mentioned are the inability of the pupils to benefit fully from such instruction, the shortage of suitable text-books in the various subjects, the atmosphere outside the school, and the apathy or opposition of parents.

MEDICAL SERVICE.

The main purposes of school medical inspection, adds the report, are concerned with the supervision of the health of the child, the noting of the early signs of impending disease, and the giving of advice as to the best means of its prevention. Under the scheme, parents of healthy children are advised as to the best means of keeping such children free from any influence likely to be detrimental to their health. Means are provided for the treatment of the more common defects of the school child, such as decayed teeth, enlarged tonsils and adenoid growths, and defective eyesight.

The scheme for the provision of school meals was in operation in the county boroughs of Dublin, Cork, Limerick and Waterford, and in 37 urban districts. A gross total of 3,461,220 meals was provided, at an average cost of 1.15d. for each meal.

The number of secondary schools and pupils continues to increase, and there is no indication that the maximum expansion has yet been reached. As compared with the previous year, there was an increase of six in the number of recognised schools, and an increase of just over 1,000 in the number of pupils in attendance, the totals for the school year 1931-1932 being 306 schools and 30,004 pupils.

TRAINING SCHEME.

The Department is alive to the necessity for providing training for workers in new industries, but it is not always easy to do so, especially as many of the new industries are dependent on costly machinery, the provision of which would be beyond the financial resources of many of the Vocational Education Committees. The Department has, however, a scheme by which it is enabled to pay to any industry three-fourths of the cost of training learners or apprentices in that industry. The training may be given in the factory premises and the Department is always prepared to assist in finding suitable skilled instructors if the factory management is unable to find them. Generally speaking, little advantage is taken of this scheme, though the Department has on many occasions brought it before the notice of interested persons.

THE RETURN OF SENATOR CONNOLLY.

Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly, Vice-President of the Executive Council and Minister for Local Government and Public Health, with Mr. Lemass, Minister for Industry and Commerce, met Senator Connolly on Carlisle Pier, Dun Laoghaire, when he returned yesterday afternoon from London, where he headed the Irish Free State delegation to the World Economic Conference. Among the Minister's fellow-passengers on the ss. Hibernia were Count and Countess McCormack.

PUBLIC PARTICIPATION AT A MINIMUM: STOCKS CLOSE FIRM.

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

Public participation was at a minimum on the Stock Exchange to-day, and dealings were again very slow. Towards the end, however, the market advanced on renewed unofficial forecasts of inflation, and prices in the general list were 1 to 3 points higher at the close. The turnover amounted to 1,730,000 shares.

The opening was firm, but during the morning the market drifted idly. "Wet" stocks rallied occasionally and several advanced 1 to 3 points, while Farm Implement shares were supported in response to the upswing in wheat, but the market generally fluctuated narrowly at fractional advances.

The early moderate upward movement lacked vitality and prices soon slipped lower. Pressure, however, was not marked during the afternoon.

The market rallied in the late trading on a revival of rumours of inflation, with Mining and Alcohol stocks to the forefront of the rise. The close was firm. The Industrial group and a few Railroad issues gained 1 to 3 points on the day. "Wet" stocks rose 1 to 6, while the Mining section and a small number of Utility shares finished 1 to 2 points higher.

The opinion seems to be fairly general on the Stock market that Washington does not want another runaway market at the present time, and the financial leaders are heartily in sympathy with this attitude.

The announcement that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is ready to lend up to 1,000,000,000 dollars to those banks whose assets have been impaired was viewed on Wall street as being a final move by the Administration to clear up the remaining weak spots throughout the country.

This week's figures of electric power output showed a gain of 15.4 per cent. compared with last year.

Western Union Telegraph Company reports earnings for the first six months equivalent 2.53 dollars per share, as against 33 cents per share last year.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Wednesday.

Trading on the grain market to-day was extremely light, with prices fluctuating rapidly. An early advance took place on the bullish crop outlook and reports of damage by hot weather, but the market subsequently reacted on realising, together with scattered rains in the spring wheat area and the slowness of the foreign interest. Thereafter prices rallied partially on buying by Eastern and Western interests and commission houses, while a forecast of renewed hot weather in the spring wheat area and an improving outside interest assisted the advance. Wheat opened at the limit advance, but reacted on a wave of profit-taking and small lot commission house selling and in sympathy with Winnipeg. The larger professional operators were selling in the belief that there are still considerable holdings to be liquidated. Maize advanced on buying against sales of wheat, while pressure was light, but the market later reacted in sympathy with wheat. Rye and oats fluctuated in unison with other grains.

PHILCO WIRELESS SETS.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR DUBLIN.

Having returned to Dublin after spending six months in the laboratories and factories of the Philco Radio Corporation of America in Philadelphia, Mr. Arthur Sevitt, a young Irish engineer in the employment of Messrs. Huet Brothers, Bachelor's Walk, Dublin, is busily engaged in preparing for the assembly of Philco wireless sets in Dublin.

Yesterday he was surrounded by the special testing instruments for locating the slightest defects in any radio set, and was planning the location of the long assembly bench in the newly-acquired premises of Messrs. Huet. This bench, he said, will be nearly seventy-five feet in length, and the employes engaged on the assembly work will be seated along it, each performing one specific operation towards the building of the set. At each stage of its production the unit will be tested, and when it is complete and ready for sale it will undergo a still further test before being sent out to the dealer.

The assembly of the modern heterodyne sets is a very intricate operation, and during his stay in America Mr. Sevitt has carefully studied each stage of their production, which, in Philadelphia, is carried out on mass production lines. This, he remarked, enables the factory to produce between 7,000 and 10,000 sets a day during the busy season. In Dublin the production during the "peak" months will probably be fifty sets a day, in addition to the service work which the company may be called upon to carry out by radio dealers.

Research engineers who spent many months in Ireland have designed two special Philco sets for use in this country. The component parts will be imported direct from America, and production is expected to be under way by the middle of this month.

The new sets will be called "The 5-Star Baby Grand" and "The 5-Star Concert Grand." Among the features which Mr. Sevitt says it has been found necessary to incorporate in these "Irish editions" are coils specially prepared to withstand the dampness of the climate, and heavy-duty transformers to prevent any damage through the fluctuations in line voltage.

MONAGHAN MAN'S BEQUEST.

Mr. Joseph Moorhead, late of The Cavendish, Melbourne, Australia, and formerly of Cloncallick, Clones, has left £450, together with half the residue of his estate, the income to be applied to increase the stipend of Ballyho Presbyterian Church, Co. Monaghan, and should the Sabbath Services cease the income is to be continued for whatever purpose in connection with the congregation the General Assembly shall think fit.

LOUGH FOYLE FISHING.

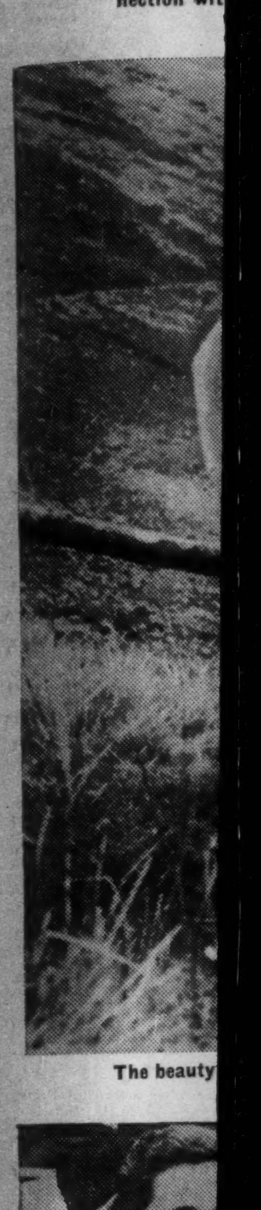

At a meeting of the Moville Fishery Board yesterday, the Chairman (Mr. J. P. McIvor) said that the decision in the Erne case by the Supreme Court in Dublin would inspire fresh hope among the Free State fishermen along the shores of Lough Foyle. They would have less difficulty in future in getting the fishermen to take out licences.

Interviewed after the meeting, Mr. McIvor said that the decision was a tremendous victory for the fishermen.

Loses 29 Pounds of Fat—Eats as Usual

Fat Folks—Here's More Proof—Daily Dose of Kruschen Salts and Twenty-Nine Pounds Gone —Eats as Usual—Sleeps Better—Costs 1/9

In this year of "grace" 1933 you must cultivate the lithe free-from-fat figure if you want to win admiration—or to hold admiration already won. There are some fat girls, of course, who profess to scorn admiration. But were they offered some enchanted cup which would cause fat to disappear in a trice, how many of them would refuse the precious draught? There is a recipe that banishes fat. Not a magical potion to be sought in a wizard's cave, but a remedy planned on a purely medical basis and obtainable in any chemist's shop. Read this letter:

Three months ago I started taking Kruschen, after having tried several other advertised remedies for reducing weight. I was then 11 stone 8lbs. To-day I am 9 stone 7lbs. I have not dieted in any way whatever, also I feel perfectly well and fitter than ever before. I cannot express my delight at these splendid results and I shall recommend Kruschen Salts to everyone I know as the finest remedy for slimming on the market to-day. I am still taking them, as I find them a good all-round tonic. I give below my measurements before and after taking Kruschen:—

BEFORE	AFTER
Bust 39 ins.	Bust 33 ins.
Waist 27 ins.	Waist 25 ins.
Hips 38 ins.	Hips 34 ins.

Miss M. G., Birmingham.

The formula of Kruschen represents the ingredient salts of the mineral waters of those European Spas which have been used by generations of over-stout people to reduce weight. Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting every gland and internal organ to function properly and throw off poisons and waste matter. Left unexpelled, this wastage is always liable to be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.

Take a half-teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts (a 1/9 bottle last four weeks) in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning. Not only will surplus fat gradually vanish and give way to smart slender lines, but your whole physical being will benefit. Kruschen actually builds up your health and creates more energy whilst it is bringing you down to a point of normal weight.

NO INCREASE IN PRICE. The large bottle of Kruschen Salts (lasts 4 weeks) still costs only 1/9. Do not pay more.

The Kruschen Figure of Health and Vivacity

CO-OPTION OF NEW MEMBERS.

DUBLIN BOARD PROTESTS

Arriving at the meeting of the Dublin Board of Assistance yesterday, after Mrs. Fitzsimmons, of 36a Talbot street, and Mr. James Gately, of Lower Ormond quay, Dublin, had been co-opted members of the Board, on the motion of Alderman P. J. Medlar (vice-chairman), who presided, seconded by Mr. W. J. O'Hara,

Mr. James Tunney protested that, as he said, this item had been taken out of its place on the agenda. He stated that on the date of the election of their chairman, Mr. P. S. Doyle, T.D., he was given a guarantee by the chairman that two Fianna Fail representatives, if they decided to take their seats, would be co-opted unanimously. He had the greatest respect for the chairman, who would live up to his word, but now they found, in the chairman's absence, that these two people had been elected.

Alderman Medlar said that he was taking full responsibility for the motion. There was no use in co-opting people who would not attend.

Mr. Tunney said that these people belonged to the majority in Dublin. "The day will come," he added, "when you will feel ashamed of your action in turning down anyone like Mrs. Tom Clarke. I will move a notice of motion to have this rescinded."

Mrs. O'Shea Leamy—Why did you not move it since the new Board met?

Mr. Tunney replied that he took the word of the chairman of the Board that two Fianna Fail members would be co-opted, and they should have waited until the chairman was present.

Was Mr. Tunney satisfied that the two Fianna Fail members, if co-opted, would take their seats? asked Alderman Medlar, who added that since the elections Fianna Fail members had not attended meetings of the Corporation.

"ON STRIKE."

Mr. Tunney—They are on strike against the treatment they received in respect of representation on committees.

Alderman Medlar said that if members were elected they should perform their duties. He, as an Independent, claimed a seat for an Independent who got a large number of votes at the election, in place of Mrs. Kettle.

Mr. Tunney—Will you admit that Fianna Fail were entitled to two members from the Corporation?

Alderman Medlar—That is for the Corporation.

Mr. Tunney said that he was sure that the two members who had been co-opted would not agree to the methods employed. Mrs. Clarke was to be turned down by a certain section.

Alderman Medlar—Were you not in a position to put down a motion proposing Mrs. Clarke?

Mr. Tunney—Your chairman asked me not to.

Mrs. O'Shea Leamy—It is the first time we heard that.

Subsequently Mr. J. J. Sheil arrived, and he also protested against the procedure which had been followed in connection with the co-options.

Alderman Medlar ruled the discussion out of order.

Mr. Tunney then gave notice of motion, with which Mr. Sheil associated himself, to rescind the co-options.

DUBLIN BOY'S DEATH.

The death of a boy, John Reid, of Waterford street, Dublin, on 17th July, was further investigated by Dr. D. A. MacErlean, when he resumed the inquest at the Children's Hospital, Temple street, yesterday.

Dr. MacErlean recalled that at the first hearing the evidence had shown that the child, playing in Hurst lane with a cart, was caught between it and the wall, and died almost on the spot.

Sergeant Dockney said that the child was killed by a light pony-cart of its own height. It would have been quite possible for the children to pull this from the wall. The lady who used the cart in her dairy business was not entitled to leave it in Hurst lane, which was in the Corporation's charge. It had not since appeared in the lane.

The Coroner said that had the cart been left in its proper place the accident would not have occurred. Children, however, were tempted to amuse themselves with a cart or anything they came across.

Replying to a juryman, Sergeant Dockney said that the proper place for the cart was in a closed yard. There would probably be a prosecution.

The dead child's father said: "I want no prosecution; it is just God's will."

The jury returned a verdict according to the medical evidence, and tendered their sympathy with the dead child's parents.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

YOUNG NATIVE'S CUP.

ON BRIAN LANDS THE ODDS IN JUVENILE PLATE.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

BRIGHTON, Wednesday Night.

It was hot here this afternoon, and some one tried to make it hotter by setting the silver ring on fire with the remains of a cigarette. The fire was a small one, and was soon put out, but anything is a diversion at a holiday meeting like this. Brighton is as much a circus as it is a racecourse.

There are few certain things in racing, but it is as near a certainty as can be that horses who do well on this course once invariably do well again. Suspicion is an eight-year-old mare, and it might be thought that she would have lost some of her speed on fast courses. The contrary is the case, and she won the Stanmer Selling Handicap to-day by five lengths from Bawbee.

Gordon Richards rode her. She started favourite, and she came home alone amid a storm of applause. I have seen favourites win important handicaps with nothing like the same demonstrations of enthusiasm.

Frank Hartigan bought her in again, this time for 250 guineas. Last time she won she only cost 150 guineas to retain.

AN EASY WINNER.

Richards had another winner in the next race. This was Young Native in the Brighton Cup. This Junior colt, who was a good deal fancied for the Lincolnshire Handicap in March, had only won one race this season, also on this course. He had six lengths to spare then from Heaven Sent.

He also won easily this afternoon, but the judge only credited him with a length and a half from Light o' Love, who also won here in the spring. Young Native took it up a couple of furlongs out, and there was only the one in it when he did.

Larking was third, two lengths away, and the City and Suburban winner, Great Scot, was fourth. The form was not good here; for, when Larking wins a seller, it only costs a hundred guineas or so to buy him in.

A GOOD PERFORMANCE.

One of the best performances of the afternoon was that of Miss Paget's Hurry On colt, On Brian, on whom odds were laid in the Juvenile Selling Plate. If he had not been a cut above plating form, he could never have made up the ground he did, caught Badebec, on whom Gordon Richards had once a long lead, and then won by two lengths. He was still last little more than a furlong from home.

Miss Paget gave 540 guineas for him when he won at Newmarket a few weeks ago, and bought him back for twenty guineas less to-day.

Prince Aly Khan rode a winner in the Berwick Welter. This was his own horse, Grey Wonder, whom he bought after running third in the London Cup with the idea of winning races like this. The grey has not much pace, but he does stay well, and, making nearly all the running, he won by four lengths from En Garde, whom Mr. Hugh Lloyd Thomas rode for Frank Hartigan.

En Garde four years ago finished close up in the Derby in the colours of Mr. Washington Singer, who is gravely ill just now.

STRATHCARRON WINS.

There are not many horses over whom more money has been lost this season than Strathcarron. A fortune went on him in the Wokingham, and more went on him last week at Goodwood, where he was left at the post. I do not think he was trusted again by his owner in the Sussex Stakes, but he was in one of his good moods, jumped off in front, and, making all the running, beat Unlikely and Crumpets by four lengths and three lengths.

All the races were easily won to-day, and in the last event, an apprentices' plate, Miss Moya beat Ditchford by five lengths.

SELECTIONS.

The racing here to-morrow will be much the same as on the other two days. The Brighton Handicap may be won by RINGMASTER. The Cliftonville Plate should go to NISONA, and the Southdown Plate to GLOSS.

GALTEE MORE.

RINGMASTER FANCIED.

GOOD HARVEST MAY WIN THE FALMER PLATE.

The Brighton Handicap, a mile race for three-year-olds, is the chief prize of a fairly attractive programme arranged for the last stage on White Hawk Hill. Despite the firm going, the pick of the entries will be saddled, and backers should find it an attractive medium for speculation.

It is understood that Farquharson runs the top-weight, The Font, in preference to the unlucky Goodwood horse, Playe Up. The Font has gone up in the scale since winning the Bibury Cup, and, in my opinion, has more than enough weight.

Dr. Strabismus, a former Irish performer, is reported to have made good headway since joining H. Smyth's stable. He appeared to be staying on when second to Semi-Quaver over six furlongs at Leicester, and possibly he will be better suited by this longer course. One victory in a selling race in seven attempts, however, is not an encouraging record.

I think Tolstoi is to be preferred, and he will give his backers an exceedingly good run. He beat Pallanza comfortably at Alexandra Park a month ago, and the latter enhanced the value of the form by winning her next two races.

I should not be surprised to see Ringmaster and Riverdale disputing favouritism. The former beat the other by two lengths over the Gatwick mile in June, and now has to allow 8lb. Riverdale, therefore, seems to have slightly the better of the argument, and he is a winner over the course. However, Ringmaster won subsequently at Newmarket, and, as he appears to be an improving son of Colorado, I prefer him of the pair.

With the exception of Counterpane, who is fancied at Newmarket, the rest do not appear to be of much account, and I shall expect to see the finish fought out between Tolstoi, Riverdale and Ringmaster. As the handicapper may not have got the full measure of RINGMASTER, he gets a somewhat confident vote.

Another event which promises to attract keen betting is the Cliftonville Plate for two-year-olds. Satiric and Polly Jerome, who have won selling races recently in very easy fashion, are not expected to be disgraced, and I shall not be surprised if the former goes close. Nisona, Sun Palm filly, Miss Scrope and Tyneside are all winners in good-class company. Perhaps the best to stand will be TYNESIDE, for the Stockbridge youngster is a quick beginner, and that is half the battle on this course.

The only horse in the Falmer Maiden Plate which has any claims for recommendation on public form is Jeunesse Dore colt. The probability is that the race will be won by one of the "dark" division, and, as Weyhill news indicates that GOOD HARVEST has been well tried, I take my chance with Gordon Richards's mount.

GLOSS is an obvious choice for the Southdown Plate, and she should win from Farrago.

If NOTICE BOARD is in form he should win the Worthing Plate; and I like MARCO POLO in the Bramber Selling Handicap.

NEWMARKET NOTES.

CAT 'O NINE TAILS IN GOOD GALLOP: TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

NEWMARKET, Wednesday.

We had a nice change in the atmosphere during the night, and the morning was delightfully fine, and some good gallops took place on the Limekilns. Captain Boyd-Rochfort stripped Roumeli, Tommy Mac and Marine Law, and gave them a good gallop over one mile.

The first-named, apart from running at Birmingham, has run well in his other races, and he does not take anything out of himself in his gallops. This class of horse usually pays to follow, particularly when running over a distance of ground, and he is in a stable whose inmates are given every chance to mature.

Eclair, with Sandals and Corona-Corona, had a half-speed gallop over seven furlongs.

R. J. Colling stripped Leicester Lane and Royal Athlone, and, with his father's Tormore and Winsome Prince, they were given a good pace gallop of one mile and a quarter. Royal Athlone, who won his first race this season at Worcester, should be followed, as there is little doubt he will improve upon that running when the ground is yielding.

Thus far this year Cat o' Nine Tails has been a disappointing horse, but I am very hopeful of his winning a nice handicap before the season closes. With Quy he moved well in a good ten furlongs gallop, and it will come as no surprise to me to see him among the entries for the Cesarewitch Stakes, as for a race of that description he has the necessary stamina.

Arctic Light, who won at Alexandra Park on Saturday, has been purchased privately to assist the Stanley House St. Leger candidates in their preparation. This morning he was stripped and led Hyperion (A. Hewitt), Beacon Hill (Hulse) and Highlander (Wells) in a good stripped mile and a half spin, which commenced on Water Hall and finished on the Limekilns. No fault could be found with any of the three St. Leger candidates. Scarlet Tiger had useful five furlong exercise.

Mr. Cottrill was on Canaletto, and, with Owers and Spinningdale, he galloped one mile and a quarter at a good pace. It is quite obvious that the race Canaletto had at Liverpool has done him a deal of good, as he went well in the above spin.

Although he failed at Goodwood, Colorow will be registering winning brackets long before the season ends, and he moved well in a nice seven furlong spin.

We shall not be very strongly represented on the final day at Brighton to-morrow.

SEA LIGHT

has failed thus far this season, but is in good trim for the Bramber Selling Handicap, and will run well.

Miss Scrope, although penalised in the Cliftonville Plate, will be well suited by this fast track, and will prove difficult to beat. Garionella filly, who is making her début, has been well galloped, while I expect to see Golden Swallow well in the limelight. The danger to however, I take to be Hubris, who ran far below expectations when well backed for the Shoreham Plate at the June fixture.

MISS SCROPE (next best),

COUNTERPANE,

if reproducing her form when third to Eclair here, would be very dangerous in the Brighton Handicap.

Craig Nahir and

are in capital trim for the Southdown Plate, and the latter should win.

WORK AT THE CURRAGH.

THE CURRAGH, Wednesday.

Though the morning was dull and threatening, the rain held off, and several good gallops took place.

Moyle Lassie is our only representative in the valuable Galway Hurdle Race to-morrow afternoon, and, although she will give a good account of herself, I do not think she will beat Mr. A. Nolan's Desla's Heir, who is greatly fancied, and is trained by W. Ashe, a few miles from here.

BEHAN'S Over Coat, Quay Hill, and Grecian Orb galloped five furlongs at three-parts speed. Figure Head, Cariff, Moonstone, Cultra, and Owen Mor did steady gallops over the same distance.

COLLINS gave Eliza's Bachelor, Kirkdale, and Naidor a good five furlongs gallop. Templetown, who is looking exceptionally well, galloped the same distance at half-speed. Matona, Enevellum, and Silverdale did the same. Veneagle and Betty White came four furlongs at a nice pace. Knight of the Mist, who will be schooled over fences in the near future, cantered.

DAWSON'S Charming Prince travelled a mile and a half at a good pace. Shady Lane, Jimmy's Pet, and Double On cantered five furlongs steadily. Farra Star did a good mile gallop. Forthview Maid went steadily over seven furlongs.

FETHERSTONHAUGH'S Hill Note, Irish Kitty, Simon Wind, Dak, Prince de Bulgarie, and the rest of the team cantered five furlongs twice.

GILPIN'S Lady Cinders galloped five furlongs sharply. Lift Line and Hopeful Bill cantered a mile and a half.

PARKINSON'S Irish Fun, Three Star, Gipsy George, and Voucher galloped five furlongs at a nice pace. Simon's Way, Rockford, Cataline, and Roman Citizen traversed a mile at a similar rate. Woman's Wings, Swift Guard, Tilbury, Grey Gorse, and Bog Road went five furlongs steadily.

ROGERS'S Corrymeela, Talk, Clicquot, Twain, Tolerate, Lady Warbler, Parched Corn, Last Post, Black Points, John George, and Old Time had good spins over five furlongs. Harem, Gold Period, Cybo, Fearless Prince, Scarlet River, and Warden's Song galloped the same distance at half-speed.

WELLESLEY'S His Reverence, whose next race will be the Phoenix Plate, galloped sharply five furlongs.

TO-DAY'S GALWAY CARD AND FORM.

KNUCKLEDUSTER'S CHANCE IN GALWAY HURDLE

Train—Broadstone, 7.20 a.m.

Judging by the number of horses declared as runners, fields all round will to-day be much stronger than was the case yesterday, and another capital afternoon's sport seems assured. The centrepiece of the card is, of course, the Galway Hurdle Race, for which the following are the probable runners and riders:—

KNUCKLEDUSTER (Major H. D. Beamish), a, 12-7 (Owner) ......Mr. F. E. McKeever
BREAGAN (Mr. P. J. McCormack), 6, 11-0 (Owner) ......Mr. Alder
FARRABOY (Mr. E. O'Shaughnessy), (5lb. ex.), 5, 11-3 (Perry) ......Mr. Delmege
COTTAGE VIEW (Mr. E. Cunningham), 5, 10-11 (Cunningham) ......T. Regan
GIPSY JANE (Mrs. H. D. Beamish), 6, 10-11 (Beamish) ......T. Burns
DESLA'S HEIR (Mr. A. Nolan), 4, 10-9 (Ashe) ......P. Fitzgerald
CASTLEBAGOT (Mr. J. A. Mangan), 5, 10-7 (Owner) ......Mr. J. A. Mangan
STROLLING WITCH (Mrs. M. O'Regan), a, 10-5 (Kirwan) ......A. Thompson
MOYLE LASSIE (Mr. James O'Keeffe), 6, 10-5 (Parkinson) ......E. M. Quirke

SLANDER (Mr. R. Gorey), 6, 10-1 (J. Kirwan) ......A. P. Thompson
AVONDALE (Mr. A. P. Harris) (5lb. ex.), 5, 10-3 ......T. Dee

GAELIC GAME (Mr. J. Joyce), 4, 9-10 (J. Kirwan) ......J. Grogan
ROSEBLOOM (Mr. M. Flynn), 4, 9-9 (Owner) ......R. Everett
BEECH DALE (Mr. E. J. Byrne), a, 9-7 (Clarke) ......John Doyle
CYGALICE (Mr. D. Murray), a, 9-7 (Owner) ......P. J. Murray

Knuckleduster will be attempting to emulate his achievement of last year in carrying top weight to victory in this event, and, as the opposition on this occasion does not seem any more formidable than it was then, it is quite on the cards that history will be repeated to-day. His stable companion, Gipsy Jane, boasts useful credentials, as does Desla's Heir, in whose favour it can be said that he has demonstrated his ability to win at a distance of two miles over the minor obstacles. Cottage View, Farraboy, Avondale and Breagan read the pick of the others, but for the winner I shall take and the remaining places may be filled by Gipsy Jane and Desla's Heir.

COOLINOLAGH UNPLACED.

RED PARK'S SPARKLING TRIUMPH IN THE GALWAY PLATE.

The Galway Plate again proved the big attraction it always does for Western sporting folk, and the attendance, despite an unfavourable morning, was of exceptionally large dimensions. Light rain fell virtually throughout the day, but this did not damp the ardour of the sport-loving folk who had congregated to see the great steeplechase.

Coolinolagh remained a firm favourite throughout the wagering, and at flag-fall was a 5 to 2 chance, with a slight call over Red Park. He put up a bold showing under his big impost of 12st 7lb., but as the race was run, Red Park dominated affairs all through, and won like a good horse. He was either first or second at every stage, and when he pulled away from Cushendall and Coolinolagh coming up the hill to the winning post, it was apparent that he had the race won.

Coolinolagh, who had been last in the early stages, made up a lot of leeway, but when he had come half-way up the straight his bolt was shot, and his rider wisely did not persevere with him, otherwise he would have been placed third instead of being beaten by a short head for this position by Brave Edna.

This race was particularly free from mishaps. Pukkeroo fell at half-way, and Strolling Witch hit the wing of a fence on the second round, just about where Frozen Out was eased up, but there were no other casualties of any kind to man or horse.

RED PARK'S SUCCESSES.

Lady Helen McCalmont, who was present to see her horse win, thus had the satisfaction of winning the three principal Irish steeplechases with Red Park, who was bred by Mr. McE. Hope, at Gaulstown. He won this year's Irish Grand National and the Prince of Wales's Plate at Punchestown, and his triumph yesterday was just as complete as on either of the other occasions. He was again ridden in capable style by the County Kilkenny jockey, D. Kirwan.

Racing opened in brisk style with eleven runners going to the post for the Salthill Hurdle. Endeavour and Slander were the best-fancied candidates, and when a mile had been covered it looked as if they would contest the finish. Both in turn, however, were headed by Golden George, who raced up the hill in great style to win with a good bit in hand.

A 20 TO 1 CHANCE.

Mr. Fogarty's horse was but little fancied, odds of 20 to 1 being easily procurable. Thus the Powerstown running as between Slander and Golden George was reversed. It was, however, a case of the horse who finished up the hill best coming out on top, and Golden George seemed to relish this part of the journey, whereas Slander was done with at the foot of the hill.

The Mallow winner, Watch and Ward, was expected to follow up that success by winning the Mervue Plate, but in a gruelling set-to with Believe Me the latter stayed on the better, and scored a popular win in the colours of Captain G. A. Boyd-Rochfort.

Red Hillman, a son of Deflation, gave Mr. A. P. Harris a nice winning ride in the Moyode flat. He led all the way and easily held off Rushmere coming up the hill.

Although there were five runners for the Ballybrit Steeplechase, it was really a match between Bowmint and Lacatoi, the pair racing in close company. Mistakes by Bowmint at the two last fences paved the way for an easy win for Lacatoi.

In a stirring finish for the Stewards' Plate Dope King beat Toppy by a head, and completed a double event for the Brackenstown stable.

IRISH SETTER CLUB'S FIELD TRIALS.

The annual field trials of the Irish Setter Club were held on the Marquis of Waterford's moors at Glenbride on Tuesday and yesterday. The entries were fewer than last year.

The judges on the first day were:—Dr. L. V. Hunt and Mr. P. J. O'Callaghan, and on the second day Dr. Hunt and Mr. D. McMenamin, T.D. The weather was delightfully fine on Tuesday, but it changed, and there was a Scotch mist on yesterday. It, however, cleared at 3 o'clock, just as the trials finished. CRICKET.

TWO DOUBLE CENTURIES

FINE SCORING FEATS BY HENDREN AND HEADLEY.

VERY brisk cricket delighted a large crowd at Leyton, where Middlesex scored 292 for eight wickets in less than four hours before tea. Lee, who started the hitting, and Hearne soon fell to smart catches, but Hendren, going in at 16, played superb cricket. Making 51 out of 78 in sixty-five minutes, he reached 101 out of 181 in two hours twenty-five minutes. In his fourth century this season and the one hundred and thirty-fifth of his career, he revealed all his well-known powers. He drove to the off, cut and hooked with splendid precision, and brought off many sweeping leg strokes.

Never did he lift the ball when forcing the game, and he often ran in to smother the slow bowling on a dry pitch, from which the ball turned quickly. Batting four hours twenty minutes, Hendren took out his bat for 222 out of 368, hitting twenty-three 4's.

G. Headley, the famous West Indies batsman, made his best score of the tour against Norfolk at Norwich yesterday, scoring 257 not out. His previous best score was 224 not out against Somerset at Taunton. He hit with great facility all round the wicket, with a special liking for late cutting and shots past square leg. His score up to the present includes a 5, helped by an overthrow, and thirty-three 4's. He reached 200 out of 372 in four hours forty-five minutes, and got to 250 in five and a half hours. At times he showed considerable patience, but always punished anything in the nature of a loose ball, and his innings, always attractive, was watched by one of the largest crowds seen at Norwich.

TO END THE LEG THEORY TROUBLE.

AN APPEAL FOR A ROUND TABLE CONFERENCE.

An appeal for a round-table conference to settle the dispute between England and Australia over the leg theory, was made by Mr. Sydney Smith, manager of the Australian teams which toured England in 1921 and 1926, at the annual meeting of the St. George District Club at Sydney.

Mr. Smith began his speech with the hope that when Bradman went to England next year he would prove to be a greater batsman than ever. One of the delegates interrupted: "But will a team go?" "It has to go," replied Mr. Smith. "We cannot afford, from an Empire point of view, to allow the Tests to be abandoned. They mean more than cricket. They mean friendship between England, Australia, South Africa, New Zealand, and the West Indies.

"Cables and letters won't get us anywhere. We want a round-table conference to solve the problem. We all trust that better counsel will prevail, and that in 1934 we will see an Australian team leaving for England to play up to the cricket traditions of yore."

Mr. Smith is spoken of in some quarters as a likely person to go to England to discuss the leg theory if Australia decides to send someone.

YACHTING.

BRITANNIA BEATS VELSHEDA.

NARROW VICTORY OF THE KING'S YACHT.

THERE was a moderate westerly breeze in the Solent yesterday, when the Royal Yacht Squadron continued their Regatta. Britannia won the principal event after a great race with Velsheda by 42 secs., on corrected times. They were given a course of forty miles. All carried full working canvas, and were sent away to a very fine start at 11 a.m. The scratch yacht was Westward, and she allowed Velsheda 1 min. 32 secs., Shamrock V. 3 mins. 56 secs., Britannia 4 mins. 44 secs., and Astra 4 mins. 48 secs. Astra spoiled her start by being over the line at the gun, and the re-cross cost her 1 min. 48 secs.

They luffed through the line on the starboard tack, with Westward first across and Britannia next. Shamrock V. crossed on the weather of Velsheda, and Astra was last away. They put up a very fine race as they beat down the west channel, to fetch the Solent Banks buoy. With the help of a fair tide they made short work of this leg of the course. The weather mark was reached with Britannia leading Velsheda by 1 min. 5 secs. There was very little between the other three.

Spinnakers were carried to starboard on the run back to Cowes. After passing through Cowes Roads, Velsheda handled her spinnaker and luffed out to windward. Britannia held her course and both yachts carried the spinnakers right up to the north-east middle buoy. As they hauled round this mark for a reach to the south-east middle buoy Velsheda was leading the King's yacht by about 32 secs. They had a beat through the line on their way to the western mark. Westward retired before completing the first round. Astra was going well, and was in front of Shamrock V. when the round times were taken as follows:

	H.	M.	S.
Velsheda	1	32	55
Britannia	1	35	47
Astra	1	38	27
Shamrock V.	1	39	12
Westward	gave up.

The wind was a little lighter on the second round, and Britannia, sailing remarkably well, closed up on the leader. A grand race resulted in a win for the King's yacht, on corrected times, by 42 secs. The finishing times were:—

	H.	M.	S.
Velsheda (2nd)	4	3	15
Britannia (winner)	4	5	45
Astra (3rd)	4	9	30
Shamrock V.	4	15	2

THE WATER WAGS.

Thirteen boats started in a race over the port course last evening, the wind being moderate from west. They went away at 6.45 p.m., when Alfa had the best of a good start, Anne, Pansy, Cupid and Moosmie being nearest her. Alfa (sailed by Mr. Ian McFerran) held her lead through the first round and until the beat on the second, when Coquette worked ahead of her. Finish—

LEINSTER'S TEAM TO PLAY ULSTER.

CHOICE OF SELECTORS RESTRICTED.

THE Leinster Selection Committee have nominated the following to play Ulster at Bangor on Saturday next:—

Goal—K. O'Grady (Clontarf).

Full Backs—T. A. O'Reilly (Clontarf), B. G. Kearon (Dublin University).

Half-back—M. O'Mahony (Clontarf).

Forwards—L. O'Brien (Sandycove) (capt.), H. P. Dockrell (Dublin University), W. L. M. Maguire (Clontarf).

Reserve to travel—P. J. Lavery (Clontarf).

Except O'Grady and O'Brien, who are international players, the team is new to representative games. Owing to the Pembroke tour and the Sandycove gala on Saturday, the choice of the selectors was restricted. The team is a young one for so severe a test as the Ulster match, and might be regarded as an experimental side, but there is ability in each position, and they may spring a surprise.

CLONTARF AGAIN DEFEAT DUBLIN.

CLONTARF......... 6 DUBLIN......... 5

The final match in the Senior League at Blackrock last evening resulted in another victory for Clontarf over Dublin. Clontarf started with great vim, and crossed over with a lead of four goals (Maguire, O'Mahony, Doyle and Lavery). Lavery placed Clontarf five up after the change of ends, but Dowds scored for Dublin soon afterwards. Lavery got Clontarf's sixth, and the game seemed likely to result in a runaway victory for the visitors. At this stage, however, the Dublin team took command, and completely dominated the play to the end. Dowds scored three times and Barry once, to bring the margin down to one goal in a thrilling finish. Clontarf about deserved their victory, but the Dublin rally when apparently well beaten was most meritorious. Teams:—

Clontarf—K. O'Grady; T. A. O'Reilly (capt.), M. O'Mahony; E. J. Doyle; C. P. Grier, W. L. M. Maguire, P. J. Lavery.

Dublin—D. Lyons; D. Murtagh, E. King; N. M. Purcell; F. Dowds, J. Barry (capt.), P. O'Byrne.

THE CO. KILDARE TOURNAMENT.

E. HARTE-BARRY'S SMART VICTORIES.

THE feature of the day's play in the County Kildare championships at Naas yesterday was the advance of E. Harte-Barry, the young Elm Park player, in the singles. He gained two capital victories over A. Bradford and C. A. Jackson, both in straight sets. In the second set Bradford had two set points at 5-3, and two more at 6-5, but was unable to drive them home. Keeping a good length off the ground, Harte-Barry took every opportunity to come in to the net, and volleyed cleverly when he got there. Bradford produced some fine passing shots, but his low volleying was weak. After losing the first set to love, Jackson took the second to sixteen games before going down to Harte-Barry in the second round. Hitting hard off the ground, T. V. Murphy made a good recovery against R. J. Sandys in the second set, saving it at 5-3 and levelling 5 all, but Sandys took the next two games for the match. Results:—

THE JUNIORS AT LANSDOWNE.

IRISH BOY CHAMPION'S GOOD PLAY.

Another fine day enabled a great number of matches to be played in the Lansdowne Juvenile Tournament at Londonbridge road yesterday. R. Brown, the Irish boy champion, advanced to the fourth round of the Leinster Boys' Championship. In the third round he beat B. Citron, a useful player, who, however, was no match for Brown. The latter has added pace to his game while retaining his former steadiness, and he will be difficult to beat. Another boy who impressed was B. Mathews. He was hitting the ball hard and well, and easily disposed of his third round opponent.

In the second round of the Leinster Girls' Championship, Miss F. Conan, who got as far as the semi-final last year, had a hard match with Miss M. McCann. The latter girl has made a big improvement, but Miss Conan was too steady for her. Miss O. Poole, who was beaten in last year's final, went into the semi-final yesterday. She is still extremely young, but she has the steadiness and skill of a veteran, and has made the advance to be expected.

Progress in the handicap singles was good, and the doubles, which will prove a big job, were also tackled. Play will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning. Details:—

ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY.

SPRING SHOW ESSAY COMPETITION.

YOUNGER SCHOLARS EXCEL.

ONE thousand six hundred and ninety-four essays were examined in connection with the Royal Dublin Society's Spring Show essay competition, this number being a substantial increase on the entries of former years. The adjudicators were Mrs. Duane, M.A., and Mrs. Ryan, M.A.

"The best essays," it is stated, "have been written by the younger scholars, who appear to have made a close study of several of the exhibits, and decided very definitely what they considered to be the best features of the Show. When they came to write, they expressed themselves in simple, straightforward language, which was reasonably free from mistakes in grammar and spelling. Some remarkably good essays also were written by the older boys and girls."

"The standard of the Irish essays," it is also stated, "was good, and there was not much to choose between those awarded medals and certificates."

The following are the results:—

FARMER'S DEATH IN DUBLIN.

An inquest was held yesterday by the Dublin City Coroner, Dr. D. A. MacErlean, on James Smyth, Arran Bridge, Chapelizod, aged about sixty-nine years, a farmer, who had been knocked down by a motor car on 28th July, and subsequently died.

Mr. H. P. Mayne appeared for the driver of the car involved. Sergeant Fitzgerald represented the Guards.

John Bowden, Collinstown, Leixlip, Co. Kildare, said that his motor lorry struck the man as Smyth was crossing the roadway at the junction of Islandbridge and Conyngham road. Witness had been travelling about 10 miles per hour, and had sounded his horn several times, but the deceased man kept walking on, and was knocked down by the left front mudguard. The car had skidded on the greasy surface of the road on the brakes being applied.

Matthew Smyth said that his father had come to Dublin on holiday; he was an active man with good sight and hearing.

Dr. James B. Lynch said that the injuries sustained by Smyth might have accelerated death, but his death was not directly attributable to the accident. Death was due in the main to cardiac failure.

The jury returned a verdict that death was not caused by the accident, and in accordance with the medical evidence, and recommended the relatives of the deceased man to the consideration of the owners of the lorry. They exonerated the driver from all blame.

DUBLIN BOY'S FATAL FALL.

A fourteen years old boy, John Nolan, of Heytesbury street, South Circular road, Dublin, fell from his bicycle at Booterstown last night, and sustained a broken leg and other injuries from which he subsequently died.

The body was taken to Saint Michael's Hospital, Dun Laoghaire, where an inquest will be held.

WATER BAILIFF'S REVOLVER

TAKEN BY THE POLICE.

In his report to the Dublin Board of Fishery Conservators at their meeting yesterday, Mr. MacNamara, head water-bailiff, stated that the revolver he had for the past seven years for his own protection, for the scaring away of cormorants, and the shooting of seals, had on the previous day been taken away from him by the Guards, in pursuance of instructions they had received. There was nothing, however, to prevent him carrying a rifle or shotgun.

The Clerk (Mr. B. J. Newcombe), referring to this matter, said that Mr. MacNamara's work was not political, and he had the revolver merely to defend himself against poachers, who were not political either, but who were merely out for catching fish illegally, and who were often very threatening to him.

THE USE OF A RIFLE.

Mr. Brown suggested that they might recommend to the Fisheries Department the suggestion that Mr. MacNamara be supplied with a rifle. The gun was very useful to him for shooting seals. The Department had previously refused to sanction the expenditure of a few pounds for a rifle, although the Board had a permit for one. When so many hundred thousand pounds were passed for various things for the Department, he thought they should give a few pounds for the rifle. If it were not given, he would suggest that the members of the Board subscribe for the purchase of one.

Mr. Pack-Beresford said that he thought that, owing to the state of the country at present, they might leave the matter as it was.

The Chairman (Dr. Leeper) said that he thought the Department might be thinking of accidents or something else rather than the expenditure of a few pounds.

Mr. Brown pointed out that Ringsend fishermen who paid for licences for fishing were entitled to protection. There was no way of dealing with seals except shooting them.

It was intimated that a memorial letter asking for this protection was being sent in by the Ringsend fishermen, and it was decided the write the Department of Fisheries enclosing this memorial, with a request to grant the cost of the rifle.

Further in his report Mr. MacNamara stated that the River Liffey was still low and occasional dead fish could be seen in it.

COLONY HOUSES.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times the Poultry Correspondent says:—

Colony houses, as they are called, are very useful on the farm at this time of the year. We have the hay fields being cleared just now, and later on the corn will be gathered in. On all these fields there is an immense amount of good feeding which should not be allowed to go to waste. Houses on wheels can be shifted about, and the birds get the full benefit of foraging. Turkeys do well on stubble ground, and geese will glean up a lot of food. As far as possible birds of all kinds, young and old, should be shifted to these places, and they will do well. Hens, too, that have been deficient in egg-production lately will receive a fresh stimulus, and it is really wonderful how this change does good.
